Russians Repulse Five Nazi Counter-Attacks

Fierce Fighting Near Approaches To Novorossisk

Ground Forces Battle Hand-to-Hand, Moscow Reports

Nearly 9,000 Germans Re- ported Killed in Last Two Days

LONDON, Friday, May 7. (AP)—Russian troops smashed five Axis counterattacks on the approaches to Novorossisk in the Caucasus Thursday and captured a number of important heights in the violent struggle to throw the Germans into the sea, Moscow announced early today.

Often fighting hand-to-hand, the Red army forces killed 1,500 more Germans, said the midnight communique, recorded by the Soviet monitor. Thus in two days the Russians have reported the killing of nearly 9,000 Germans who had clung to the narrow foothold in the Caucasus.

Late reports said the Russians were only five miles from Novorossisk, and Soviet ships stood out to sea to smash any attempted Axis evacuation by boat.

Counter-Attacks Fail

The five Axis counterattacks, each one more violent than the preceding one, were launched in an effort to retake Neberejayskaya, nine miles northeast of Novorossisk, and other communities overrun by the advancing Russians, the communique said.

"Our troops repulsed all enemy attacks with heavy losses to the enemy," it added. "The Germans were hurled back to the west."

The fighting extended to the Kuban river valley above Neberejayskaya, and the communique said the important heights were taken in that area. The Russians thus were seeking to isolate the German garrison based at Novorossisk by cutting off any escape routes to the Taman peninsula opposite the Crimea.

Major Roads Cut

The Russians already have cut the major roads linking the Novorossisk garrison with German forces fighting on the western end of the Taman peninsula, but the Germans still hold a coastal road leading from Novorossisk to Anapa, twenty-five miles above the big port.

Bomb German Bases

Big Russian bombers also were continuing their offensive at German rear-line bases elsewhere on the front, the Moscow radio announcing raids on Dnieperpetrovsk and Kremenchug in the Ukraine, and on Bryansk farther north.

German-held Rail Stations

German-held rail stations in these three cities were said to have been "crammed" with trains carrying ammunition and arms. Hits were scored on them, and fires and heavy explosions set off, said the broadcast recorded by the Soviet monitor.

Only Scattered Ground Fighting

was reported on the long front.

Moscow dispatches said the flagship of the Soviet Black Sea fleet, the battleship Pariskaya Kommuna (Paris Commune), and other powerful naval units were patrolling off Novorossisk ready to pounce on

26 Men Spend 42 Days and Nights In Atlantic in an Open Lifeboat

BALTIMORE, May 6. (AP)—Boat-swain James L. Tucker thanked his "foremost today for the fact he—as well as twenty-five other merchant seamen—were still alive following forty-two days and nights in a lifeboat after their ship was sunk.

For Tucker had placed triple emergency rations in all the ship's lifeboats—just in case.

"You have no idea how long forty-two days and nights can be until you spend it in a twenty-two-foot lifeboat with twenty-five other men in the middle of the Atlantic," Tucker said.

He estimated the boat drifted more than 2,500 miles.

IGNORED BY LEWIS, WAR BOARD PLANS CONCESSIONS TO MINERS

But Giving Them Increase in Wages Does Not Figure in New Plans To End Troubles

By JOSEPH A. LOFTUS
WASHINGTON, May 6 (AP)—Ignored again by John L. Lewis, a War Labor Board member nevertheless went ahead with a hearing on the coal dispute today, and apparently explored the idea of granting the miners some concessions other than the requested $2-a-day wage increase.

Chairman Morris L. Cooke asked questions about the present charges for miners' equipment and materials, such as cap lamps, explosives and safety devices. There was no indication, however, whether the panel would actually recommend changes in existing practices in this regard.

Although the panel put "the latch string out," the United Mine Workers, of which Lewis is president, was not represented. He has accused the board of prejudice.

Because of a work stoppage, the government took over the mines last week-end. The UMW then sent the miners back to work under a fifteen-day truce.

Reporters Attend Meeting

In view of Lewis' absence, the panel said it decided to take the unprecedented action of opening the hearings to reporters. Chairman Cooke estimated the hearings might run two weeks.

Nathan P. Feinsinger was designated to present the miners' arguments, taking as his text the transcript of Lewis' expositions in recent New York negotiations. Feinsinger is chief of the WLB disputes section.

Home Front Not Yet Winning War, Roane Waring Says

Legion Commander De- clares There Is Too Much Optimism

INDIANAPOLIS, May 6. (AP)—Our fighting men are winning their battles on the military front but the home front is not yet winning its battles, Roane Waring, national commander of the American Legion, told a public meeting here tonight in reporting on his recent North African tour.

"Make no mistake about this war," said the beetle-browed Legion chief in his prepared address, which was broadcast nationally. "It is a fight to the death."

"American fighting men are dying

on their feet in North Africa and in the Far Pacific, that we who stay at home may not have to live on our knees."

Too Much Optimism

Waring told his listeners, including several hundred war plant workers among the throng of Legion executive committeemen and just plain citizens in the big state fairgrounds coliseum, that he was "deeply concerned over the general feeling of optimism prevailing in this country."

"So many of our people have the idea that the war is practically won," he said. "Nothing could be further from the truth. This false optimism tends to slow down production."

"Deep in my memory will ever be the picture of the American soldier as I last saw him in Africa, sweating in the heat of the day, and shivering in the cold of the African night."

Manpower Group Again Considers Long Work Week

May Place the Entire Country under a 48- Hour Schedule

WASHINGTON, May 6. (AP)—The War Manpower Commission is studying the possibility of putting the entire country on a forty-eight-hour work week, but is still far from a decision, officials said today.

Thus far the forty-eight-hour

week has been ordered only for thirty-nine areas where labor is short, and for three industries on a nationwide basis: steel, lumbering and non-ferrous metals mining.

A majority of business concerns

are bound by law or by labor agreements to pay time and one-half wages for all work in excess of forty hours. Principal exceptions are local trade and service firms.

The WMC officials, who would not permit quotation by name, told reporters that whether a nationwide forty-eight-hour week would be ordered would depend largely upon the number of exemptions that would have to be provided.

"If too many exemptions would be necessary, we won't do it," they said.

Long under Study

The prospect has been under study by the WMC for two weeks or more as another means of dealing with the growing manpower shortage, these officials said.

They estimated a national forty-eight-hour week would be equivalent to adding about 1,000,000 workers to the present labor force because, they said, it would release about 500,000 for other jobs while permitting their former fellow workers to do their old work by working longer hours.

The officials said one danger in a nationwide forty-eight-hour week would be the possibility that it would create unemployment in areas with surplus labor.

Consideration is being given to allowing regional and area WMC directors to grant exemptions in these cases, as well as cases of concerns unable to adopt forty-eight-hour schedules because of lack of materials or other like factors.

Many Exemptions Granted

In the thirty-nine areas now under the forty-eight-hour week, exemptions are granted for firms employing fewer than eight persons, federal, state and local governments, youths under eighteen, part-time workers, and others unable to work forty-eight hours because of "household duties or physical disabilities."

In addition, exemptions can be granted on various other grounds by area WMC directors, who have wide discretion.

The officials said they had not consulted Economic Stabilization Director James F. Byrnes in ordering a forty-eight-hour week for the steel industry by July 1.

Seek To Save Manpower

The purpose of the steel order, they said, is to save manpower in existing steel plants, cut down their hiring, and release workers for other war industries and new steel plants which will come into production soon.

They said the steel industry was

"consulted only through the (WMC national) Management-Labor committee," whose membership includes Conrad Cooper of the Wheeling Steel Corporation, Wheeling, W. Va.

Japanese Submarines Sink Five Ships Off Coast of Australia

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, Friday, May 7. (AP)—Japanese submarines have sunk four Allied ships and one American recently off Australia, the high command disclosed today.

The majority of the crews were rescued by naval units, headquarters reported.

Last April 30, it was announced for the first time that the Japanese were sending submarines in some force, indicating wolf pack methods, to the east of Australia where lie the sea lanes of supply used by the Allies.

"Five Allied merchant vessels, namely one medium sized United States freighter, one large and two small Australian freighters and one small Norwegian freighter, have been lost as a result of enemy operations against our shipping as indicated in the communique of May first," the noon communique said.

"The majority of the crews were saved, due to prompt action by our naval patrol craft. Our shipping

War Labor Board Seeks Power To Increase Wages

But Members Find Byrnes Backs Roosevelt's "Hold-the-Line"

WASHINGTON, May 6. (AP)—The War Labor Board, in a three-hour session with Stabilization Director James F. Byrnes today argued that it ought to have some power to increase wages to remove "inequalities" but members reported gloomily they received little or no encouragement.

Authoritative sources said Byrnes

was told that the pressure from workers upon their union leaders was such that some of the labor members of regional boards might resign and the movement might even extend to the national board.

Byrnes Stands Pat

More than a week ago the board approved a memorandum to Byrnes, suggesting that it be given certain powers to iron out inequalities. The board discussed the memorandum with Byrnes and his staff today and reported that he offered no counter proposals. Members, who cannot be quoted by name, said it was their impression that Byrnes was not prepared to grant any substantial concessions that would relax the president's "hold-the-line" order of April 8.

Prior to the April 8 order, the board had the authority to exceed the fifteen per cent "Little Steel" formula if necessary to eliminate injustices in pay rates within a plant, or between comparable jobs in different plants in the same area or industry.

Authority Limited

The hold-the-line order limited the board's authority on increases to the little steel formula, sustained (Continued on Page 2, Col. 7) will continue to fight," he added. "There has been no evidence of an attempt to evacuate any considerable portion of the Axis army."

GERMANY FEARS LAND INVASION BY TROOPS UNDER GEN. DEVERS

Successor to Gen. Andrews Known as Specialist in Armored Warfare and Artillery Work

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
WASHINGTON, May 6. (AP)—The invasion spectre was raised anew for the Nazi high command today as Lieutenant General Jacob L. Devers, recognized specialist in armored warfare and mobile artillery operations, was assigned to command American army troops in the European theater.

Devers succeeds Lieutenant General Frank M. Andrews, killed in an army plane crash in Iceland. War Secretary Henry L. Stimson said Andrews' death had denied the country the services of "one of its most brilliant and gallant officers" but added that he was being replaced by a man who proved his "immense capacity for organization and administration as head of the armored force," an assignment he has held since August, 1941, with headquarters at Fort Knox, Ky.

"General Devers is thoroughly

cognizant of present and future plans," the war secretary told his press conference, obviously to dispel any idea that Andrews' death might delay projected operations in the European theater.

Stimson also noted that Andrews had been peculiarly fitted for the "present" period, when a sustained night-and-day air attack on continental targets is the dominating Allied activity. Andrews was a qualified army flier as well as a ground force leader and well-schooled military administrator.

Devers, however, received his first commission in the field artillery in 1909 and specialized in that arm until his appointment in 1941 to organize and command the armored force. He spent some months in 1919 in both France and Germany before his return to a five-year assignment at West Point as instructor in field artillery tactics.

It is that background of tank and field gun specialization that lends special significance to Devers' new assignment. Russian, British and American mobile guns, working in close co-operation both with air power and ground forces, have paved the way for Allied victories on the Russian and African fronts this year, opening the road repeatedly for tank exploitation as at El Alamein or against the Mareh line.

Under General Devers, American forces will be schooled for invasion by a leading exponent of the combined operations of all arms. Such combined operations, Secretary Stimson noted today, have tightened a "noose" about Axis armies in Africa and left them no choice but to fight or surrender.

"There is every indication they will continue to fight," he added. "There has been no evidence of an attempt to evacuate any considerable portion of the Axis army."

The Allied "Noose" in Tunisia was the product, the war secretary said, of "almost perfect co-ordination" of American, British and French ground forces and of the British naval co-operation against Timor, firing the airdrome area.

Americans Smash German Lines in Vicinity of Goal

Capture of Massicault, 15 Miles from Tunis, Is Reported

Yanks Closing in on Ferry- ville Eight Miles from Bizerte

By WILLIAM SMITH WHITE

Associated Press War Editor
The final battle for Tunis and Bizerte—"The Payoff Battle," as field dispatches called it—was joined last night in Tunisia and the extraordinary rate of the general Allied advance indicated that the Allied triumph might not be long delayed.

The enemy's defenses were

collapsing cumulatively to areas just short of the very gates of Tunis and Bizerte themselves; the Axis air force was driven utterly from the skies by an Allied air arm which was officially declared to have attained "complete domination" in flying more than 2,000 sorties.

By WILLIAM B. KING

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN

NORTH AFRICA, May 6. (AP)—American and British troops, supported by a crushing Allied air offensive which has chased Axis planes from the Tunisian skies, have smashed through enemy lines before Bizerte and Tunis and captured Massicault, fifteen miles from Tunis, a special communique announced tonight.

American troops closing on Biz-

erte despite strong opposition deeply penetrated Axis positions in a general assault which began at dawn today, the communique said.

The weakening Axis defenders

reeled back toward Bizerte and Tunis under a savage rain of Allied artillery and infantry blows, and Allied planes hammered the retreating Germans and Italians relentlessly.

The "Payoff Battle"

An Associated Press dispatch from the front said "the payoff battle" which is a prelude to a European invasion "is underway."

The American troops were believed to be about eight miles from Bizerte and closing on Ferryville below the naval port. Ferryville's docks and other vital installations already has been knocked out by American artillery and air bombs.

Fighting all along this forty-mile front was going on at nightfall, and the Allied air arm was not giving any rest to the battered Axis troops.

Gen. Henri Giraud, French high

commissioner in North Africa, announced in Algiers that there were definite signs the enemy was weakening and reaffirmed his recent assertion that the Axis would be crushed in Africa before the end of the month.

On the basis of the present situation the end may come even sooner than that, although the Germans still have strong natural defenses in the rugged terrain of the Cap Bon peninsula east of Tunis.

Von Arnim Flees Tunisia

"The French Moroccan radio in a broadcast recorded in London said Col.-Gen. Jürgen von Arnim, the German commander, had already fled Tunisia, and said Marshal Erwin Rommel had preceded him out of Africa."

The special communique said that the Northwest African air forces had made a record of more than 2,000 sorties and "blasted a path in advance of our ground units."

Allied airmen had "complete air

domination," the bulletin added. Seventeen enemy aircraft were destroyed over Axis landing fields, a destroyer was blown up in the gulf of Tunis, and eight ships were sunk and others damaged in flights (Continued on Page 2, Col. 4)

Reciprocal Recognition of Auto Driving Permits Covers 12 States

BALTIMORE, May 6. (AP)—Motor vehicle administrators of twelve eastern seaboard states north of the Potomac river agreed today to extend reciprocal recognition to automobile driving licenses issued by any of the states.

The agreement was adopted in executive session by the eastern conference of the American Association of Motor Vehicle Administrators at the suggestion of W. Lee Elgin, Maryland commissioner of motor vehicles and president of the conference.

States included in the agreement are Maryland, Delaware, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, New York, Rhode Island, Connecticut, Vermont, New Hampshire, Maine, Massachusetts and the District of Columbia.

Although Virginia is not a member of the conference, a spokesman attending the two-day session said the state was willing to enter into a similar agreement with any of the conference states.

The state administrators also agreed to issue driving licenses to any qualified motorist holding a permit issued by any state in the area without requiring a road test.

In other actions today at the concluding business session, the conference decided to require that illiterate drivers must be accompanied at all times by a person who can read and that drivers who have only one arm must equip their cars with a mechanical or electrical device on the rear to indicate stops and turns.

Treasury Opens New Attempt To Kill Ruml Plan

General Counsel Says It Is Unfair to the Small Taxpayer

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON, May 6 (AP)—Opening a new fight against the Ruml plan, the treasury argued today that middle and lower income taxpayers will have to shoulder most of any new war taxes and hence are entitled to a proportionately larger abatement of 1942 taxes than persons of large income.

Randolph Paul, treasury general counsel, advanced this contention as the Senate Finance committee began hearings on pay-as-you-go tax legislation with a majority reported to be leaning toward the Ruml-Carlson plan abating levies for all taxpayers except those with "windfall" incomes. This measure lost by only four votes in the House where the treasury had opposed it strenuously.

Plan Unfair, Paul Says
It would be most unfair, Paul asserted to give what he termed inequitable abatements to taxpayers in the higher brackets if an additional $16,000,000,000 in taxes is to be imposed, as President Roosevelt has suggested.

By and large, he said, any increases "will fall proportionately most heavily on the lower and middle incomes, since it is not feasible to raise the rate on higher incomes proportionately."

"It would be grossly inequitable to forgive taxes on income groups on whom future tax increases cannot be imposed and then to impose heavy tax increases on other income groups," he declared.

Paul left no doubt that the treasury still wants the pay-as-you-go measure which was reported by the House Ways and Means committee, but dumped overboard by the House. This would tax 1942 income at the lower 1941 levies.

House Bill Second Choice
The treasury's second choice, Paul indicated, is the House-approved bill which would put about ninety per cent of the taxpayers on a current basis, excusing all 1942 levies for about seventy-five per cent under the present law.

Both these measures, as well as the Ruml-Carlson plan, would put most taxpayers on a current collection basis by providing for a twenty per cent withholding tax on salaries and wages.

Asked by Senator Johnson (D-Colo.) if the treasury preferred no bill at all to the Ruml-Carlson proposal, Paul took so much time to think about his answer that there was general laughter when Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.) remarked that he "hadn't heard clearly" what the treasury general counsel said.

"I wouldn't want to answer that question now," Paul replied. "It has never been put to me that way before and I want to think about it. There are a number of things to be weighed."

Home Front

In some places here on the home front?

Scores John L. Lewis

"As he (the American soldier) faced the hated Nazi on the Tunisian battle line, America witnessed at home the sorriest spectacle that a nation at war ever faced, when John L. Lewis issued his infamous 'no trespassing' order to 530,000 coal miners."

Of his inspection of the Panama canal defenses, which he visited enroute to Africa, Waring said:

"I had some fear of our ability to protect it (the canal). I am not worried about it now, and you need not be worried."

In North Africa the Legion executive found the American army "doing a magnificent job," he said.

At one point Waring asked to "nail some German propaganda lies."

"In this war," he said, "there is not the slightest friction between the high commands or between the private soldiers of the American, British and French forces. The Allied armies are working as a team. 'Neither are the British letting anybody else do their fighting for them. They are doing their own fighting and doing it magnificently. Those British soldiers in Africa are superb. They have been through hell, and its fires have not daunted them. You've got to admire them.'"

The huge toward Novorossiysk occurred when Soviet troops broke German defenses on a twenty-five-mile front and captured Krymanskaya, seventeen miles from Novorossiysk. Then Neberdjayevskaya was seized in swift eight-mile advance assisted by hundreds of big Russian guns and planes.

Truman Probers

Secretary Harold L. Ickes as petroleum administrator made him responsible directly to the president while leaving him "subject to the direction of the War Production Board."

"The lines of authority are confusing even on paper," Truman declared. "As a practical matter they breed disputes such as that under consideration."

Liberty Ship Named For Knute Rockne

RICHMOND, Calif., May 6 (AP)—Knute Rockne, famed Notre Dame football coach, was honored by his country today with a Liberty Ship bearing his name, launched at the Richmond yard No. 2.

The ship was sponsored by Miss Joan Shaw, 17-year-old daughter of L. T. (Buck) Shaw, Santa Clara coach and Notre Dame tackle under Rockne. Coach Shaw released the launching trigger.

Also participating were Marchmont Schwartz, Stanford head coach who played on Rockne's last team before his death in an airplane crash, and Keene Fitzpatrick, San Francisco, class mate and team mate of "the Rock." Schwartz represented the coach's widow, Mrs. Knute Rockne, at her request.

Ignored by Lewis,

Charles O'Neill, spokesman for the Northern Appalachian operators, told the panel that his group had offered to join the miners in a request for board approval of any wage equity the miners could find under the national stabilization program.

Men Rent Lamps

When Chairman Cooke asked about charges for camp lamps, O'Neill said the history of the lamps was that the miners always supplied their own until electric lamps and batteries were adapted to replace the open flame type. He said the operators procured and maintained the lamps and batteries and rented them to the miners for seven or eight cents a day, which the operators described as "a negotiated rate."

One of the operators agreed that the change from the old carbide lamp to the electric lamp increased illumination and therefore increased efficiency as well as safety but there was no measurement of the possible increase in production resulting from the change.

As to explosives, Edward R. Burke, representing southern producers, said the miners were not demanding that the operators pay for them. "In fixing tonnage rates," said Burke, "all these facts are taken into consideration. Any change in them would mean a pay raise."

Burke told the panel he appreciated its problem of getting all the facts because of the refusal of the miners to appear and said, "we will, so far as we can, aid in that by presenting the facts fully and not just as an interested party. To the fullest extent possible we will try to put the whole picture before the panel in view of the fact that our opponents are not here to make their own case."

Consider Dimout
The dispute also claimed attention in other capital quarters:

1. War Production Board officials said a nation-wide dimout probably would be ordered to conserve coal if the United Mine Workers should stop work again at the end of the two-week truce, now in its third day.

2. In the House, Rep. Patten (D-Tex.) proposed to expand the Connally bill (passed yesterday by the Senate) which would penalize anyone instigating work stoppages in plants taken over by the government. He said it should provide criminal punishment for those who conspire to delay production in any war plant, and told reporters such a measure would affect the case of Lewis.

Will Supply Plants
These developments followed orders issued yesterday by Fuel Administrator Ickes which would supply—in emergencies—coal-short war plants and essential civilian users from stocks of those whose supplies are ample.

The WLB panel listened to testimony from about fifty north and south bituminous operators and their spokesmen after Panel Chairman Morris L. Cooke, noting no UMW representative was present, said "the latchstring is still on the outside of the door" and expressed hope that Lewis would appear.

During a brief closed session a member of the staff of the office of war information was permitted to remain.

Later, Cooke threw the hearing open to the public, saying this was done so that "the absent contestant may be advised of our day-to-day proceedings."

O'Neill Presents Figures

Charles O'Neill, presenting the case of the northern Appalachian operators, put into the record figures from fifty company stores to show, he said, that in the past two years food costs had risen 24.51 per cent, other costs of living were up 21.25 per cent, while gross earnings showed an increase of twenty-eight per cent from October 1940 to February 1943.

Labor is represented on the panel by David M. Robertson, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers, which, like the UMW, is an independent union. The employer member is Walter White, assistant to the chairman of the business advisory council, department of commerce.

In New York, anthracite operators announced they would appear here tomorrow before the panel.

Two Found Guilty Of Fraud in War Contract Orders

Kann and Decker Convicted by U. S. Jury in Elkton Case

BALTIMORE, May 6 (AP)—Convictions were returned today by a federal jury against two of the twenty persons indicted in what the government charged was a $1,400,000 fraud in connection with munitions contracts held by Triumph Explosives, Inc., of Elkton, Md.

They were Gustav H. Kann of Pittsburgh, former Triumph president, and Joseph Ben Decker of Elkton, one-time vice-president, who were convicted on all five counts of an indictment accusing them of using the mails to defraud Triumph of more than $84,000.

The jury deliberated about an hour after receiving the case following a two-hour charge by Federal Judge W. Calvin Chestnut. Judge Chestnut deferred sentence pending rulings on motions for a new trial, and both Kann and Decker remained free on bail.

Court officials said the maximum penalty under the convictions was $10,000 fine or five years' imprisonment, or both, on each count.

The former executives of the Elkton munitions concern, which was taken over by the navy department last October under presidential order, and later released, failed to take the witness stand during the trial which began Monday.

However, government witnesses related that the two one-time officials of Triumph obtained the more than $84,000 by making checks payable to a secretary, who told the court she cashed them and turned them over to Decker and Kann.

Judge Chestnut told the jurors that the principal question in the case was whether any of five checks drawn on a Pittsburgh bank were actually placed in the mails in Maryland in connection with the sum drawn from company funds as commissions on foreign munitions business.

A series of fifteen indictments have been returned in the case, naming in addition to Kann and Decker other former administrative employees of the Triumph company, several inspectors, and others.

Kann and Decker were the first to be tried.

Marine Corps Pilot Killed in Crash Near Greencastle

HAGERSTOWN, Md., May 6 (AP)—A young marine corps student pilot died today in the Washington County Hospital shortly after his plane crashed on a farm near Greencastle, Pa., on a routine solo flight from the Hagerstown airport.

The Henson Flying Service, which holds a contract for training marine student pilots, said the flyer was a student at the Marine Training School at Mercedburg, Pa. The pilot's name was withheld pending notification of his next of kin.

The flying service said the pilot had checked out on a solo flight at 6:45 a. m. where he failed to return a search party was organized but soon after word was received that he had crashed on a farm owned by George Swisher, four miles east of Greencastle.

Swisher and others pulled the injured pilot from the wreckage and he was rushed to the hospital.

American Capture 300

In reducing the two hilltops near Lake Achkel the American troops driving on Bizerte had captured more than 300 prisoners, most of them Italians, during yesterday's fighting. The special bulletin indicated they had increased their bag considerably since then.

French troops were cooperating with the Americans in the north, most of the French attacking west of Bizerte in close liaison with the Americans who cleaned out the hills on both sides of Lake Achkel.

Five Axis counterattacks intended to delay the American advance toward Ferryville and Bizerte were reported smashed by the forces of Lt. Gen. George S. Patton, Jr.

Highlighting the big Allied ground push was the unparalleled display of Allied aerial might. Dispatches from the British first army front said the Allied planes were swooping over the Axis positions at seven-minute intervals by day and also dropping flares and occasional bombs by night to make sure the Axis troops could not get any rest.

Americans Smash

extending to Sicily across the Mediterranean.

Three New Developments

In ground operations there were three outstanding developments.

American troops broke through Axis positions on a broad front after capturing Djebel Chinit and Djebel Achkel on the northern and southern sides of Lake Achkel. This released a wave of onrushing Americans beating toward Ferryville and Bizerte.

Farther inland the British first army drive on Tunis was from two directions, west and southwest.

Tebourba, Axis-held road junction eighteen miles west of Tunis, was menaced by one British and one American column, hitting from the northwest and southwest. At last reports the Americans were only four miles from this junction, fighting in the hills at Choukri.

The British column late yesterday stormed and captured the bloody hilltop of Bou Aoukaz to break through toward Tebourba, and were believed close to the town. Hundreds of Allied artillery and planes rocked German defense nests atop Bou Aoukaz, then British Tommies swarmed up the hill to take it with bayonets and grenades.

Few Prisoners Taken

Once it fell British artillery lifted their explosives onto the next minor line of hills along the road toward Tebourba, and the British infantry plunged onward. The ferocity of the fighting yesterday was seen in the fact that only thirty Axis prisoners were taken, but the special communique tonight said "many prisoners from a large number of different units" had been taken in later operations.

To observers this indicated the Axis was hurling in its last available manpower levies in a supreme effort.

Grave Threat to Germans

Massicault's seizure on the southwestern approaches to Tunis was along the main road to the Tunisian capital, and was an immediate threat to the Germans because the British in that sector have broken into the Tunis plain where their superior numbers of tanks can be employed in the climactic struggle.

The capture of Massicault also threatened to turn the strong Axis mountain positions which thus far have held up the British Eighth army in the south. French units attacking near Zaghouan farther south also were menacing the entire German southern line.

British Eighth army troops meanwhile reported making a local advance on the line which stretches westward from the coastal marshes of the Gulf of Hammet above Enfidaville. "Patrols penetrated deeply behind the enemy positions," the regular communique said. "The country has been heavily mined."

American Capture 300

In reducing the two hilltops near Lake Achkel the American troops driving on Bizerte had captured more than 300 prisoners, most of them Italians, during yesterday's fighting. The special bulletin indicated they had increased their bag considerably since then.

French troops were cooperating with the Americans in the north, most of the French attacking west of Bizerte in close liaison with the Americans who cleaned out the hills on both sides of Lake Achkel.

Five Axis counterattacks intended to delay the American advance toward Ferryville and Bizerte were reported smashed by the forces of Lt. Gen. George S. Patton, Jr.

Highlighting the big Allied ground push was the unparalleled display of Allied aerial might. Dispatches from the British first army front said the Allied planes were swooping over the Axis positions at seven-minute intervals by day and also dropping flares and occasional bombs by night to make sure the Axis troops could not get any rest.

Petty Chiselers Getting Gas, OPA Statement Says

Truckmen and Some Station Owners Violate Law in Baltimore Area

BALTIMORE, May 6 (AP)—Office of Price Administration investigators checking on reported illegal sales of gasoline in Baltimore said today that "petty chiseling" by truck drivers and filling station operators was largely responsible for the existence of an illegal market.

Meanwhile, Cornelius P. Mundy, regional OPA enforcement officer, said that repeated visits of A-card holders to Pimlico race track may indicate a use of gasoline from illegal sources.

Mundy said that driving to the track was not a violation of gasoline regulations as long as only A gasoline ratings were used. However, a check of automobiles at the race track since April 16, disclosed that 108 A-card holders had made at least three visits to the track.

24 Gallons Per Car

"Of course," Mundy added, "if a motorist uses his entire four-month ration (twenty-four gallons) to attend races at Pimlico, he is not in violation of any regulation."

However, if the motorist's race-track mileage plus mileage for other purposes exceeds the total permitted under an A-card it would indicate the use of an illegal source of gasoline, Mundy said.

OPA investigators said gasoline coupons had been reported selling for as much as fifteen cents apiece. Most common source of bootleg coupons, the agents said, are truck drivers.

of gasoline which he has not sold and can either sell the gasoline without collecting coupons or he can sell the coupons. The money paid by the trucking company for the gasoline that was not delivered is split between the filling station operator and the driver.

The OPA agents said the illegal gasoline market was "very limited" but conceded that some black market supplies were obtainable through illegal distribution, principally through the use of bootleg coupons.

Fort Hill Hi-Y Boys Elect

Wendell Boggs and Kenneth Hensel were named outstanding junior and senior members of the Fort Hill Boys' Hi-Y Club at a meeting last night at Central Y.M.C.A. They will be given awards in recognition of this honor at the final meeting May 20.

Election of officers was also held at last night's meeting. David Wright will serve as president for next year and will preside at the last meeting of this year. Other officers elected are: Charles Barnes, vice-president; Kenneth Hensel, secretary; Raymond Lapp, treasurer, and Joseph Monteleone, sergeant-at-arms.

Catch and Cook Fish

When rations began running low, Tucker related, one of the crew rigged up a gig by lashing two knives to an oar, and after two days of unsuccessful effort finally stabbed a thirty-five-pound fish and flopped it into the boat. A fire was built in a bailing bucket and the fish cooked over it.

Then one day the men saw a ship but it went by. On the forty-second day, Tucker related, the men saw land and a coastal ship picked them up and took them to Santos, Brazil.

That night, Tucker related, the men heard a German short wave news broadcast announcing they had been picked up, where they landed and the name of the sunken ship.

Tucker said he lost forty pounds on the voyage and the other men between forty and fifty pounds each. But now he's ready to go back to sea.

The board estimated, last month, that nearly 10,000 applications for voluntary increases which had a reasonable chance of being approved would have to be rejected because of the president's order concerning inequalities.

Davis Confident Farm Labor Will Be Sufficient

Food Administrator Believes Men Are Available for Harvest

WASHINGTON, May 6 (AP)—A report today from Chester C. Davis, food administrator, to James F. Byrnes, economic director, surveyed the farm labor, equipment and supplies situation and said that it "seems to be showing improved promise."

Davis had been asked by Byrnes to give immediate attention to farm problems so as to assure carrying out the government's crop production program.

"A current appraisal of the farm labor situation," Davis said, "indicates there is an available labor supply sufficient to produce and harvest a 1943 crop up to the levels of the announced goals. If the potential is fully used, farm production need not suffer from lack of labor in 1943."

Except in a few areas of highly seasonal fruit and vegetable production, the food administrator said, most of the needed labor will be obtained locally through local efforts.

The help necessary this year, he said, will come from 6,000,000 farm families, mobilization of town and city folks into a crop corps of 3,500,000 workers, farm hands given selective service deferment, men with farm experience who are released from non-essential industry, and when they are over 38, from the army, and workers imported from Mexico, Jamaica and the Bahamas.

While not entirely satisfactory, Davis said, the farm machinery and supply situation for 1943 recently has been improved.

property owner, our main concern is about the injury to the moral character of the growing child who learns to be inconsiderate and destructive. Gates and fences can be replaced. New crops can be grown another year. But the damage to the child may never be entirely repaired. He has begun a practice which, if allowed to grow unchecked, can reach immeasurable proportions, even ending up in actual crime.

Parents who do not sense the seriousness of this problem, even some parents who are highly respected citizens in their home community, will ignore the complaints of the owner whose property they and their children appropriate, mar or destroy. Some of these parents will ridicule or abuse the owner right to their faces, their own children looking on. Or, if complaints come to these parents that their children have trespassed in some way, these parents may come to their child's defense and thereby suggest to the child he did not wrong.

Let me entreat you to put yourself in the annoyed owner's place, on whose property you and your children have trespassed. Then consider the moral character and citizenship of your child. Doing so, you will, by precept and example, be very exacting of yourself and your children. Should you discover that you or your child has done some damage unaware, hasten to reimburse the owner and apologize to him in deep humility. Then make clear to your child just what he must not do again. Ask the owner, in the presence of your child, to report to you if or when your child trespasses again. Right then and there name the penalty to the child should he prove guilty later. Then keep your word.

A good rule for you and your children is to walk over no property unless you are sure it is right to do so. When you have the least doubt, avoid it entirely or until you have permission of the owner. Express genuine appreciation for the privilege granted. Then be very careful about the gates, fences and everything else on that property.

I believe that such matters should be discussed at home, at school and Sunday school. They might be worthy of a place in a sermon from the pulpit.

American Farmers Prefer Independence

COMMUNISM calls for what is known as collective farming. Under this plan, government buys or seizes farm land. It then sells or leases it to farmers. Usually the tenants, or perhaps buyers, are allowed a small tract of land for garden and pasture purposes, and are required to work the large tract, or collective farm, on a share basis, the collectivist colony taking some of the product and the government taking some for taxes or so-called payments on the land.

This plan was brought to the United States from Russia, where farmers were once slaves of large landowners, then tenants, and, after the Reds killed 3,000,000 land-owning farmers and stole their land, slaves of the government. In about a century the Russian farmer has gone through the cycle of serfdom under the delusion that a change of oppressors is progress.

He did make some progress in education, health and, latterly, gained a share in whatever work he might do in excess of the Communist average. He is now fighting to prevent himself from becoming the slave of an even more oppressive master, Adolf Hitler.

Collective farming has not worked well in the United States, fortunately. It is now under the care of the Farm Security Administration, which has poured millions into these communist experiments. The one in Arkansas, known as Plum Bayou Homesteads, is now said to be a wreck with only twenty-two of its ninety-six houses occupied.

Somewhat the American farmer is never so poor that he must long surrender his independence and self respect to government agents seeking to rope him into what his forefathers fled Europe to escape. He detests slavery, whether the master wields a bull whip or an FSA loan.

Bureaucracy Gives Us Another New Term

WASHINGTON'S WARTIME LINGO, which has already produced "directive" and "screening," has added a new word of which more will be heard. It is "cutback," a new and polite name for cancellation. The word's increased use in the future will be the result of the war production effort outrunning any reasonable needs on most things except planes and ships.

Although it really means cancellation of part of a contract for some war goods, it does not convey the ugly inference that a mistake has been made by the procurement services. Bureaucrats, of course, are ever loath to admit that a mistake has been made, that too much of this or that item has been ordered. In that case they can just "cut back" and save an embarrassment to their political conscience when, for instance, too many tanks of the wrong kind have been ordered.

The practice of "cutting back" also permits the planners to cover up the lack of standardization, which should have been worked out years ago and which now is resulting in too many varieties of certain products.

The increasing use of the "cutback" is one of the reasons, together with increased production, that more talk is heard about releasing production for the civilian supply. When and if a civilian supply agency is set up as an equal with the armed services, more facts of wastage and bad planning will come to light. And as they do there will be more "cutbacks" to the general improvement of the war effort.

Doodling Switches From the Dollars

THE ART OF DOODLING—or should it more properly be called a pastime, or perhaps just plain vandalism?—is undergoing a big change, according to the New York Herald Tribune, which rather strangely confines it to table linen. It is moved to a dissertation on the subject by news from Boston that John W. Stokes, president of the Massachusetts Restaurant Association, has urged that customers stop doodling on tablecloths for the duration. Mounting labor and laundry costs, he says, make this ancient practice more wasteful than ever. Admitting that this plea is plausible, the New York paper wonders how much of the history of doodling in this country is known to Mr. Stokes and it proceeds to go into it. It started around the turn of the century, it says, when Get-Rich-Wallford, the amusing financial villain created by George Randolph Chester, used to doodle on tablecloths while cooking up his grandiose swindling schemes. Then in the booming 1920's there were such addicts as John W. (Bet a Million) Gates, Tex Rickard, David Belasco, Morris Gest, Sam H. Harris, George M. Cohan and various other inventors, all of whom were figuring expectant millions of profits. As the Great Hurrah came on the cost of doodling must have risen to prodigious proportions.

But today, the pastime is different, according to the Herald Tribune. "The modern doodlers," it says, "and they are legion—are interested in two things: (1) war strategy, which results in all manner of tablecloth maps of Europe, Africa, Alaska and the Pacific area, together with designs for new and fearful weapons, and (2) the shape of the World of Tomorrow. Of the two types it is difficult to guess which is currently spoiling the most linen."

Well, who cares about the dollar profits anymore?—the tax gatherers will probably get all of them anyway. Regardless of the change of motif, the Herald Tribune doubts that the plea of Mr. Stokes, of Boston, will be able to make them stop it, "for here are subjects which appeal to the imagination of both the little doodlers and the super-doodlers whenever they can borrow a pencil and find a clean tablecloth."

How simple the restaurateur is, after all. To reduce the costs of this vandalism he would have to do the moment an addict sat down, or whenever he exhibited symptoms of an oncoming attack, would be to rush in with a large paper tablet, a dozen sharpened lead pencils and a scowl. Still and all, there is a question whether the outright perversity of the practiced doodler would suffer such a crass substitute. The restaurateur probably was too tolerant too long.

More Bombing By Night

SOME RADICAL CHANGES in American bombing tactics in the European war theater are under way. The changes are along lines laid down by Maj. Gen. Ira C. Eaker, commander of the United States Army Eighth Air Force. The changes are also along the lines which have been suggested by critics of American bombing tactics.

The Britain-based Flying Fortresses and Liberators are being equipped for night missions by having flame dampers installed to cut off the trail of fire from exhausts. The gunners of the bomber crews are receiving special instruction in the technique of shooting down enemy night fighters and pilots are brushing up on the hazards of flying at night.

These preparations, together with others, suggest that American bomber crews are preparing to make night bombing forays on Germany proper in conjunction with the RAF.

Ever since American bombers and their crews arrived in England, they have stuck doggedly to the strategy of precision bombing by daylight. As a result the American air force has had to limit itself to targets that were comparatively close to England. It is possible to bomb Berlin by day—a small force of hedge-hopping RAF Mosquitoes did it in January—but the slow-moving American bombers would be exposed to unnecessary risks on such a mission. The extra gasoline and the extra ammunition each gunner would need would cut down the bomb load to the point where the game would not be worth the candle.

The American strategy of daylight bombing is still feasible and has a place in the master plan for Hitler's defeat. The process of leveling industrial centers in Germany, city by city, will require bombing at night and this seems to be what the American bombers are preparing to do.

The New York woman who needs three gallons of wine, a fifth of whisky, a fifth of brandy and a pint of pure alcohol to augment her diet, at least left the champagne stock available for launching new ships.

The United States Army is paying out $15,000,000 a month for shoes, proof that the Yanks are getting ready to go.

A threatened shortage in farm feeds will not worry the hens if the grasshopper crop is up to normal.

The way to end the farm labor shortage is to have some of the cuties enlist in the land army.

Capital Ponders Litvinov's Trip To the Kremlin

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

Why Russian Premier Josef Stalin very recently sent an urgent summons to his Washington ambassador, Maxim Litvinov, to the Kremlin, for a Soviet conference, is still a decided puzzle.

It has been no secret that both the American and British government leaderships have been considerably worried concerning Joe's attitude—until his May day address in which he praised the Allied air blows as "foreshadowing the formation of a second front in Europe."

For one thing, Stalin had been outspokenly impatient at the Allies' delay in invading continental Europe, which naturally would be a vast relief on his own front, though Anglo-Yankee reasoning has not seen the time as quite ripe for it yet.

There likewise was an implied snub in his failure to attend the Roosevelt and Churchill Casablanca conference.

Still more lately, when he saw fit to sever or suspend relations between Moscow and Poland's London "government in exile," he did it entirely without notice to his biggest pair of partners in the United Nations group.

Counting all these considerations, the conclusion has been that Stalin proposed to shape Russian policy wholly independently of any of his associates' ideas relative to the present war situation or world readjustment after the conflict is over. And the post-war settlement matters to American and British statesmanship only a little less than the war's outcome.

President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Winston Churchill are well known to be planning an ultimate era of international good will, to last through all future ages. They realize, however, that not even a start can be made on it without Russian co-operation.

It is regarded as by far the likeliest subject to be the theme of Stalin's chat with Litvinov.

Paradoxically enough, a prospect is seen now that the discussion may turn out not so unfavorably for the democracies' wishes.

Comrade Stalin's May day speech expressed himself forward them in the kindest fashion. He highly complimented American and British soldiering and sailing. Instead of complaining as heretofore that they had been derelict in aiding the Soviets by establishing a fiercer "second front" against the Axis, he spoke of their performances as greatly helpful to Muscovite activities.

In short, he could not have improved on himself as a pro-Allied orator.

He promised nothing in particular, but he certainly was affable.

Anglo-American comment expressed delight, of course, but it was stunned somewhat. It did not suggest, in print, that Joe had flopped, but it did hint at a gasp of astonishment.

Envoy Knows Us

Right on the heels of that May day speech came news of Ambassador Litvinov's order to report to the Kremlin.

Well, Ambassador Litvinov never was much of a Communist. Though not purged, he was wished into Moscow's official discard when Joe was on fairly good terms with Herr Hitler. Then, the Russo-German break having occurred, he was diplomatically re-conscripted.

Comrade Stalin does not know anything about the western world—does not pretend to. He has to have expert advice and Maxim is a dandy at it. It is to Joe's credit that he recognizes as much.

Joe Stalin is no formal diplomat. He cannot wear dress clothes or perform at receptions. His foreign commissar, Comrade Molotov does not count officially, either. What those boys require is an expert and Embassy Litvinov is it.

Smacks Again Of Duplicity

From the Wheeling.
W. Va., Intelligencer

Vital need for copper for war purposes has been frequently impressed on all of us through the drastic restrictions that have been placed on its use. Because of this there is real cause for wonderment in the authority given the Rural Electrification Administration to build thirty-two projects all over the country, which, we are reliably informed, will bring electric service to an average of less than two users to a mile.

This go-ahead signal has been given to the government-financed and subsidized REA, while business-managed, tax-paying utilities, which were carrying out a vast rural line extension program when war intervened, are completely stymied.

Has the supply of copper suddenly been increased, or have war needs been diminished so that copper can now be used for constructing promiscuous farm electric lines? And, if the copper supply is abundant, why are not all utilities permitted to make extensions?

One may say electricity on the farm will aid the war effort, and certainly it will—if the farmer has the machinery, equipment, and appliance to use it. But this material is very scarce; and what is still available is needed for replacements on more productive farms, not those in sparsely settled areas just getting electricity for the first time.

This letting down of the bars for a government agency to use critical materials in competition with private business which is denied the same right, smacks again of New Deal duplicity. Surely we have a right to expect something better than that out of Washington at a time when all fair-minded people are thinking only of winning the war.

A POOR PLACE FOR AN ARGUMENT

Connally Anti-Strike Law Is Expected To Win House Approval in a Few Days

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, May 6.—For the first time in ten years a bill that restricts labor's interference with production seems likely to become law. The passage by the Senate of the measure proposed by Senator Tom Connally, of Texas, is an extraordinary occurrence. Hitherto the House has passed many a bill aimed at a buses of the right to strike by labor, but the Senate committees have managed to squelch any further steps in the legislative process.

Organized labor—the bulk of which needs no restrictive legislation and can be counted on to help the war effort loyally—can look to John Lewis as the man responsible for the present mood in the United States Senate and for the probability that the House will pass the Connally bill by an overwhelming vote.

Congress has been hearing from the country. Strikes and interferences with production have been minimized by the labor politicians but, at the same time, the power of these leaders to interrupt production has been dramatically exhibited. There is no excuse for the fact that labor disputes seem not to be able to be handled in any other way except by seizure of the employer's property. Too-often the labor politicians have deliberately maneuvered things either to force the War Labor Board to take jurisdiction or else to get a favorable decision by threat of a strike or an actual strike.

Power for Labor Board

The new measure would give the War Labor Board the right by law—which it has not had heretofore—to step into a dispute, call witnesses and hold hearings, compelling by means of the subpoena power any labor leader or employer to attend the sessions of the board. The board has been a creature of an executive order. Under the Connally bill it gets for the first time certain statutory powers which will do a great deal toward preventing disputes from reaching the point where the only remedy is for the government to take over a property where the dispute occurs. The Connally bill will be in the nature of a preventive measure.

Also, the new proposal would punish anybody who induces anyone to leave work while the government is operating a plant. It would prevent interference with anyone who wants to work. It is a wartime measure only, but if it is effective there may be a tendency in peacetime to give to a national board or commission some of the same powers so as to hold down work interruptions and prevent the huge economic losses growing out of strikes called, to no small extent, merely to enhance the prestige of a particular labor leader or his associates.

Strike Orders Prevented

The Connally bill, moreover, bears directly on the coal controversy. Mr. Lewis has granted the government a fifteen-day truce, and the assumption is that at the end of that period he could call out his men and bring on a strike. If the bill has become law, no orders could go out from any union headquarters, nationally or locally, in the miners' organization which tells anybody to refrain from work. The individual would have the right to walk out and stay out, but the moment he does so, as a result of instructions from any two or more persons, the whole thing becomes a conspiracy to interfere with war production and the instigators of the interruption could, if convicted, be punished by jail or fine, or both.

If the Connally bill becomes law in the next few days, the so-called truce could hardly result in anything but an agreement under terms laid down by the War Labor Board. Mr. Lewis would lose the leverage he has today. It will be interesting to see what the House of Representatives does with the bill. The union politicians will strive hard to delay passage. They will try, for one thing, to bottle up the measure in committee or else defer action in the hope that if the coal controversy is settled amicably, there will be less public pressure for passage.

Majority for Passage

Whenever the bill comes out of committee, on the other hand, there is an ample majority in the House to pass it, and very likely the president would sign the measure. Otherwise, he would take full responsibility for encouraging work interruptions by threats of strikes. It is believed the president is ready to go along with the trend of public opinion on this issue.

The heads of the A. F. of L. and C. I. O. will, of course, oppose the measure in the House—as they did in the Senate—as unnecessary. It will be interesting to see what the strength of the labor lobby is going to be on a simple bill to give the United States government power to operate war plants without interference or coercion of any kind applied against those who wish to work.

Job Should Be Done Right

From the Altoona,
Pa. Tribune

A great impatience has seized America since revelation that American fliers who bombed Tokyo were slaughtered after being taken prisoner. . . . impatience to deliver smashing blows repeatedly against Japan itself. Conflict with Japan forces on the high seas, and on remote islands of the Pacific do not serve to satisfy the national anger.

But, we want no more token raids of Japan. The next time, we want them to really know, in every part of the savage little island, that they have been bombed by Americans.

We want the job by great aerial fleets of Flying Fortresses, intent upon a concentration raid, such as blasted the heart out of Rostov and Hamburg war industries.

We want the kind of raid that will leave the vile little "sons of heaven" trembling and stricken. . . . too stricken to slaughter every man, woman and child in whole country of the districts of China, as they did in the areas near which the Yanks who first hit Tokyo were given aid by the friendly Chinese.

Let's leave the vile little "sons of heaven" trembling and stricken. . . . too stricken to slaughter every man, woman and child in whole country of the districts of China, as they did in the areas near which the Yanks who first hit Tokyo were given aid by the friendly Chinese.

Jeffers-Patterson Peace Is Uncertain, Paul Mallon Says

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, May 6.—The great peace which filled the public statements of warring executive officials caused none of those involved to file off their finger nails. They are all still ready for scratching.

The peace treaty effected between Rubber - Maker Jeffers and War-Maker Patterson is attributed—significantly enough—to Ferdinand Eberstadt, The New Yorker who left the War Production Board in the Nelson row and then was unable to get his promised position in the army.

Senators have direct information that Eberstadt brought Jeffers and Patterson together at luncheon and, under his auspices, both threw their arms around each other and agreed to take a trip around the country to see if their conflicting claims for machinery could not be worked out amicably.

The strange identity of the peace-maker, a man who had been fired by Mr. Nelson, has encouraged a wide variety of speculation. The most natural deduction was that Mr. Nelson's ancient enemies were again on the loose, and this speculation was in nowise diminished when Nelson immediately thereafter appointed Arthur Whiteside as director of a new Office of Civilian Requirements.

Mr. Nelson indignantly denied he was trimming Mr. Jeffers, but most of the newspapers thought otherwise, and not without justification, as Whiteside was apparently given control of everything in rubber except production.

Therefore, while the dove of peace was seen in the headlines, he has been constantly flitting from shoulder to shoulder losing feathers as he goes.

Convicts Serve Prison Judges

ANGOLA, La. (P)—A convict court on which prisoners regularly in judgment of fellow prisoners charged with infractions of prison rules is being tried as an experiment at Louisiana's penitentiary. Only one camp at first has been permitted to make the test, though General Manager W. T. Mitchner says so far it seems to be working out fine.

The "court" is a committee composed of 15 inmates functioning somewhat like watchmen to discover irregularities. Five committee members sit as a court, with a chairman presiding, to try any convict charged with breaking a prison regulation.

Expansion of postwar public works planning activities by New York state and creation of a commission on city planning by Philadelphia are among most recent efforts of states and cities to prepare for postwar reconstruction and development.

The English word "cereal" is derived from "Ceres," the name of the Roman goddess of the grain.

Here Is a Private Of a New Stripe

FORT RILEY, Kas. (P)—Elated at being promoted to Private, First Class, George Illium dashed to his barracks to sew on his new stripe. He measured and marked and finally sewed upon a new shirt. Then he placed it on his back to see how it looked.

The stripe was sewed neatly to the crease up the back of the shirt.

St. Bernard Dog Is Rationed to Army

DENVER (P)—The Denver dog pound master picked up a St. Bernard that obviously was a valuable animal but required five pounds of meat per day. So the pound advertised to find the dog a home, or locate his owner.

Three hundred persons called within twenty-four hours—all of them restaurant men, farmers or army quartermaster officials who had table scraps available.

From the 300 the pound master chose Capt. Chester S. Avery as the most likely to succeed in keeping the huge dog supplied with three squares a day. Captain Avery is commanding officer of an Army mess squadron—and well acquainted with large appetites.

Man is the only creature that has a developed chin.

Five-Year-Old Drives Tractor

CHANUTE, Kas. (P)—At an age when most boys are riding tricycles on the sidewalk, five-year-old George Gregory Jr., drives a tractor, all by himself.

George weighs 50 pounds, the tractor three tons. When motorists see the machine coming down the road, frequently they are horrified because they believe it is driverless—until they see a tiny head bobbing above the steering wheel.

About a year ago George began begging his father to drive the tractor and it wasn't long until he had learned how.

All automobile drivers 50 years or more in age in Rhode Island must have their eyes re-examined periodically to renew their driver licenses, the Better Vision Institute reports.

Garrett County Officials Receive Commissions

Walter W. Dawson Is Re-appointed to Board of Education

OAKLAND, May 6—Commissions or magistrates, members of the board of education and for forty-three notaries public were received by Albert G. Ross, clerk of the circuit court and ordered recorded. The commissions came from the governor's office at Annapolis.

Walter W. Dawson was re-appointed as a member of the board of education for a term of six years beginning from the first Monday in May. The other two members of the board are R. E. Guard, Friendsville, and Stuart F. Hamill, Oakland. The board will reorganize at its meeting next week, according to F. E. Rathbun, county superintendent.

Supervisors of elections will be Henry M. Speicher, Accident, Republican; Albert C. Shaffer, Kitzmiller, and W. R. Browning, Oakland, Democrats. Speicher takes the place of Benj. F. Knepp, Red House, whose terms expired, and Shaffer and Browning were re-appointed.

Four trial magistrates were named, including Emmer J. Barriek Kitzmiller; Charles U. Edwards, Grantsville; H. A. Loraditch, Oakland; and Percy S. Friend, Friendsville. W. A. Gonder, Oakland, was named substitute magistrate. They will serve for two years.

Spotters Corps Meets

At a meeting for all members of the ground observer corps and other interested citizens in the court house, Oakland, last night, Lieut. Sterling S. Speake, officer from the Baltimore Filter center, First Fighter Command, United States Army, stressed the importance of each individual spotter in the entire air raid warning system of the Eastern seaboard, and urged them to keep up their effective work.

Lieut. Speake praised the airplane spotters of the Oakland post for their alertness and their fine co-operation. He urged the recruiting of additional observers and explained that all defense against invasion through the air is built upon the foundation of the efficient and continuous operation of the posts of the First Fighter Command.

He explained in detail the filter board in Baltimore and just what happened when a spotter reported a plane. He stated that the army was planning to make a number of test flights and test telephone calls to find out whether spotters in various sections were "on the job and alert."

The meeting was opened by Howard P. Loughrie, district director of the aircraft warning service for Allegany and Garrett counties, who accompanied Lieut. Speake here from Cumberland.

County Agent Leaves

Insurance Men Seek More Gas

The problem of obtaining sufficient gasoline for insurance men to travel their routes in outlying sections was taken up at last night's meeting of the Cumberland Life Underwriters Association at Central Y.M.C.A.

A committee comprised of Jesse W. Holmes, Walter L. Pierce and John Park was named to confer with Leo H. McCormick, state OPA administrator, in an effort to see if the situation can be remedied. It was pointed out that one insurance man is allowed only enough gasoline to travel 390 miles per month while his route requires at least 600 miles travel per month.

Methods of selling and prospecting for new buyers of life insurance were outlined by Walter L. Pierce and George W. Barnard. Other talks were made by Glenmore Rice, Holmes, Joseph Biding, and L. W. Robinson.

Franklin W. Kremer, association president, reported that the ranks of insurance men were cut twenty-five per cent by induction into the armed forces or war industries. Nevertheless the National Association of Life Underwriters reports that there are 2,000 more members this year than last. Ten men joined the local organization last night.

Kremer also reported that insurance men in the United States have sold more than four billion dollars worth of War Bonds up to April 30 of this year.

Edward J. Ryan and William L. Wilson, Jr., were attorneys for the plaintiff and William A. Gunter represented the B. and O. Railroad.

The plaintiff also charged that snow and ice-covered freight cars were placed on the siding and as the ice melted the water ran on the street where it froze again and thus made it dangerous to pedestrians. Miss Carter slipped, fell and broke her arm. As a result she sued the railroad company for $1,000.

One Who Knows Says Servicemen Like Clippings

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX, Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage—Copyright, 1943, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

An officer's wife who was in Hawaii at the time of the December 7 attack, has been kind enough to write me some things about the service men, and what kind of letters the men overseas hope to receive.

"I've heard some of our men offer practically life itself if their loved ones could be with them when the Hawaiian moon is full. Lots of jokes about the Hawaiian moon, but let me say that to the men in those outposts, it used to bring terrible longing for their wives and sweethearts.

Mail Is No. 1
"When mail used to come, they'd forget all about their food. Mail is No. 1, food is No. 2, according to service routine. Sometimes it was twilight when the mail was received. Each man hoarding his letter closely would crawl into a gun pit, secure a tent flap, and read his bit of precious news by a dimmed-out flashlight, or even a carefully protected match flare.

"I remember one particular incident when we asked a boy, after seeing how elated he was upon receiving a letter from his sweetheart, if she still loved him. 'She did, two months ago,' he piped up. The letter was two months old. Another was downcast because his fiancée had written she attended a U. S. O. dance and had a good time. He feared his fate.

"When we were in Hawaii, the men would get approximately three days a month. Maybe once a month they'd have a band concert, or a hula show. When they did go to town, it was so crowded they couldn't get into a place for a meal, or a drink, or a movie, or even to the army and navy 'Y' which was always tops for any kind of entertainment. When they had a day liberty, from 10 a. m. to 6 p. m. they spent it tramping the hot sidewalks trying to find entertainment, or to buy souvenirs and cards for friends and families. The hours would flee like minutes and it would be time to return to camp.

Clippings Well Liked
"Please don't think there wasn't anything there for them; there was and it was very good, but there wasn't enough to go around. If some of the sisters, wives and sweethearts wouldn't be so overly patriotic here in the States and would give more consideration to what goes into a letter, there wouldn't be so much heartbreak in far-off outposts.

"When they write, they might include gossip, not sordid gossip, but humorous bits, and cartoons cut from the newspapers—funny ones. Clippings in every letter if possible. They all love it. If a boy in a certain unit gets things like that, he shares them with his buddies. It's surprising to see what it does to that thing they call 'morale'.

"Women who have loved ones leaving for distant posts might write seven or eight letters, and date them ahead, so that their men may have mail en route. I did that with my husband, wrote fourteen of them. He said he was the only man on shipboard who received a letter a day at sea."

It's pretty difficult to make wife-swapping anything but what it is—a dreary and sordid affair.

When we read about it occurring in mountain districts which specialize in feuds, clay-eating and snuff-dipping, we shrug it off. But here's a case involving a Mr. and Mrs. A. and a Mr. and Mrs. B. who are persons of some standing in their comparatively civilized communities, that equals in all respects any wife-swapping ever done in the mountains.

Agreement Carried Out
The original couples were friends and had exchanged visits for four years. Mr. and Mrs. B. were childless and often expressed admiration and a sort of playful envy that Mr. and Mrs. A. already had three children. Mr. and Mrs. B. canvassed orphanages but as frequently pointed out in this column, it is difficult to obtain an adoptable child.

Then the childless Mr. B. suggested the plan of wife-swapping. Both couples admitted in court that a signed agreement was drawn up whereby Mrs. B. would live with Mr. A. while Mrs. A. would reside with Mr. B. until such time as the B. home would have two children. Testimony in court disclosed that the terms of the agreement were carried out. Mrs. A. took up her residence with Mr. B. and eventually became the mother of two children.

Court Refuses Judgment
Apparently she eventually longed to return to what she considered her grade A husband. But being a maternal soul she wishes to take with her her lately acquired children, of whom Mr. B. is the father. She declined to turn the little B's over to the B. household, and more-over demanded in her legal petition that Mr. B. support them.

It seems that nothing had been mentioned about the support of the possible little B's in the original arrangement. That brought the matter to court. But Superior Judge Emsley W. Johnson, Jr., of Indianapolis, said: "The evidence being what it was I threw the whole case out of court and refused judgment to anyone."

However, that by no means settles things. For one thing, what of the children and their future?

Uniform and Lovemaking
DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

It never occurred to me that public demonstration of love's young dream would prove offensive until the other night, when I happened to sit back of a sailor and a girl in uniform, at a movie. The only thing that can be said in extenuation of their behavior is that they were both young.

The girl wore the uniform of one of those women's military organizations, lately mobilized for the purpose of relieving men for combat duty. The antics of these two rivaled that of the monkeys in the zoo. Everyone in their vicinity stopped watching the screen and gave their undivided attention to the pair. I know that Germany encourages any sort of love-making for its own purposes, but insists the uniforms should be respected to the extent of keeping raptures within bounds in public places.

F. A.

Mutual demonstrations of affection may be interesting to the participants as to make them forget there are onlookers. Such demonstrations are boring, amusing or disgusting, according to the onlooker's own feelings about romance.

Home Is Disrupted
DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

My problem is about my father who is a heavy drinker and accuses my mother and me of all sorts of things. I am 21, my brother is 15, and there are two little girls of 8 and 10. My father has never supported us; it has always been my mother who has bought our clothes and sent us to school.

Recently I succeeded in getting a position, and my mother has a defense job. We had a maid to take care of the younger children, but she left on account of my father. He threatened to kill us all, because my mother and I come in so late in the evening, after working hard all day.

Isn't there some way in which we can have our father put into the army? It is getting the best of mother and me, and I'm afraid it will affect the other three a little later on.

H. L. T.

If your father is over 39 years of age, he is not subject to Selective Service. But you can have your father put under a peace bond which will prevent him from threatening you, your mother, or committing acts of violence at home.

I would recommend the organization known as Alcoholics Anonymous which has done such magnificent work for alcoholic victims. But it presupposes that a man wishes to be cured and will work toward that end. It may be that an inebriate such as you describe your father to be wouldn't want to be cured.

The Some Old Story
DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

In a month I will be 18 years of age, and I have been going out with a soldier without the knowledge of my parents. My girl friend and I go out together, and the boy I'm going with is a friend of her service man. I really have to sneak out, because my parents don't think a great deal of service men, al-

One Who Knows

though I think they are as good as any others.

When I was in high school, my parents told me to wait until I graduated, and now that I'm out, they say to wait until I'm 18. I'm getting "fed up" with their old-fashioned ideas. I suppose they mean well, but that doesn't help me a bit. I can't see any harm in going out, if I double-date by best girl-friend and her boy friend.

Don't you think it would be a good idea for me to get a job? What about the boy friend? Am I right in seeing him on the sly?

V. D. G.

A girl of 18 should be permitted to have some dates. A good way to remove parental objection to this young man, if he is all you think he is, would be to arrange to have him as a guest in your own home. Perhaps for a dinner with the family, or possibly in a foursome with your girl friend and her beau. You could play some games, dance to the radio, have some refreshments.

Either arrangement should give your parents a chance to see what nice young men most of our soldiers are, and he, in turn, would probably appreciate an evening in a nice home, if you arrange a pleasant program for it. If his intentions are serious, he'll want to see what your parents and home are like.

Parents must realize that girls will see men on the sly if denied the right to meet them socially.

Service Man's Insurance

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX: My husband is in the army. He took out insurance and said he had to give three names as beneficiaries. Do all soldiers have to give three names, and does that mean his insurance will be divided between his mother, married sister and me? WONDERING.

When a service man takes out insurance, it is suggested that he name a contingent beneficiary or beneficiaries, who will receive the monthly installments of insurance if the principal beneficiary should not survive. The National Service Life Insurance is paid in monthly installments instead of in a lump sum.

Therefore, the extra names on your husband's policy are added, so that if anything happens to you before the insurance is paid in full, others whom he has designated will receive the remaining installments.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I've been in the army for three months. I am married and the father of a 13-months old baby. My wife is not physically able to do all the work and get an outside job too, and she has no income except the allowance.

I'm a farmer and have always worked on a farm, and if possible I would like to get a release from the army, so I could go back to helping my father on his farm. I think I could do more good there, because at least I wouldn't be worrying about my wife and baby, and I understand that a great many farmers are needed. How can I get a release from the army? A. S.

A farmer or farm hand who is directly responsible for the production of at least 16 war units may obtain deferment from the draft. Once inducted, however, it's a different matter. You must present your case to your commanding officer. Be prepared with an affidavit showing how much land is under cultivation and evidence that it is impossible to secure other farm laborers. The final decision is up to the Army.

Girls They Leave Behind Them

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX: We've been told so often that we are fighting for those we love back home. As I'm not married, sweethearts are the ones I have in mind. If we are willing to fight for them, why aren't they willing to make a sacrifice and be loyal to us who have gone on to fight for peace? Morale is not built by girls who leave their service men for some man who has been lucky enough to miss the draft.

I have been in the service almost two years, and as yet haven't gone overseas, but I expect to leave in the near future.

The one I loved and thought would be waiting for me when I returned home, sent me a letter a few days ago, asking me to disregard anything she may have promised, as she didn't know where she'd be by the time this war is over.

Fellows leaving home are cheering for the day when they will return, but a fellow loses all interest in things when his sweetheart leaves him holding the bag. Please publish this, so some of the lads may know what to expect. M. S. (Marine)

I can't help saying that any man—soldier or civilian—is well rid of a girl who can't find it in her heart to be loyal to him. The wrench of parting is cruelly painful, but in the long run it's comparable to the riddance of a troublesome tooth.

What do my readers think of girls who fall in love with uniforms and forget the men they contain before they're well out of sight?

Tried To Enlist, Then Was Drafted

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX: It has come to my attention that men have been rejected by the armed forces on account of perforated ear drums. My son has this trouble, and when he tried to enlist in the coast guard, and in the army, they both rejected him on account of this ear condition. However, when his number came up in the draft, his draft board allowed him to pass and is now in the army's armored tank division, which surely is the wrong place for him.

If the proper authorities knew of this matter, they surely would transfer him to a non-combatant unit. He's the kind of a boy who does not complain, and he may go one without saying a word. M. S.

This matter should be taken up with the commanding officer of his company. Write your son to address a letter to his c. o., requesting another physical examination. However, he may be transferred to non-combatant service instead of being discharged.

Allowance Application

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX: My son in the navy applied for the family allowance to be sent to my husband and me, and the check comes to us made out in my husband's name. We think this should be changed to my name, as I've always been the better manager, while my husband is inclined to be careless with his money. And then, too, he is in poor health and I must attend to a great many things with this money. My son's superior officer tells him it would entail a lot of red tape to have the change made, and my son wrote me to try and get it attended to at this end. He is on the open sea.

To whom must I write to have this change made? S. J. E.

Write to the Bureau of Naval Personnel, Navy Department, Washington, D. C. Identifying your son completely, giving them the information, and if agreeable to them, they will send you papers to fill out and return.

"I FEEL BENEFITED BECAUSE NOW I EAT WHAT I WANT AND LIKE"

Delbarton, W. Va. Miner's Wife Says "Since Taking Worlds Tonic My Appetite Improved So I Can Eat Many Different Things Which Contain Much Needed Elements"

Mrs. Oscar Chapman, Main St., Delbarton, near Williamson, W. Va., a regular Baptist Church member, is still in her twenties but already the mother of three children. This busy housewife says:

"I suppose there are any number of women, who have gone through the same distressing experiences as I have because of the ailments resulting from temporary constipation. I was in a run-down condition and my appetite was so poor that I just pecked at food. The children made me irritable at times. I suffered from severe pounding headaches that left me tired and weary and completely all in. That tired feeling seemed forever with me and I had hardly any energy and seemed to have no pep at all. I was bothered a lot with indigestion and suffered from gas and bloating as a result. Palpitation and gas pressure around my heart was serious and disturbing indeed.

"I started taking World's Tonic sometime ago and can truly and honestly say that the first bottle of World's Tonic made a friend of me at once. It just seemed to knock the spots out of that old constipation and the many painful ailments which it caused. I kept on taking it and soon those headaches were relieved. The gas and indigestion as well as the palpitation and gas pressure around my heart were much relieved. The tired feeling went away and I feel stronger and peppier day by day.

World's Tonic contains a goodly portion of roots and herbs gathered from various parts of the old countries where many of us and most of our ancestors originally came from.

NOW THAT physical replacements are impossible it is important to check up on your property — screens, plaster walls, metal flashings and gutters, hardwood floors, metal equipment, wooden shingles or siding, foundations of concrete, brick or stone, so that necessary maintenance work may be taken care of and properly protected. For each, we have a Pittsburgh Live Paint specially developed to give the longest possible service on that particular type of surface.

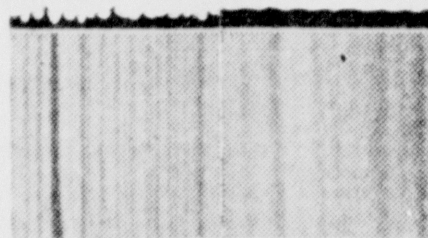

Let us show you scientific tests which prove that the improved "Vitalized Oils" fused to enrich Pittsburgh Paints remain in the paint film, keeping it young, elastic, LIVE — retarding cracking, peeling and blistering — giving the extra protection your property needs in wartime.

Various types of "Vitalized Oils" are used in the following paint formulas — Sun-Proof Two-Coat House Paint System . . . Wallhide Flat, Semi-Gloss and Gloss . . . Pittsburgh Floor Enamels . . . Pittsburgh Waterspar Enamels . . . Pittsburgh Ironhide System . . . Pittsburgh Barnhide . . . Pittsburgh Cementhide.

"Enriched with 'Vitalized Oils'
Pittsburgh Paints Give 'Longer
Service on Every Surface'"

This test shows how (left) ordinary oil soaks into surface below. (right) how "Vitalized Oil" stays in the Pittsburgh Paint-film . . . keeps it "live" and elastic indefinitely.

Left side of test illustrated above shows that ordinary linseed oil does not level out well, leaving "hills and valleys" or brush marks. The film in the valleys is thinner and that is where breakdown occurs. When "Vitalized Oil" is used (see right side of test) sharp brush marks do not occur. They are rounded and one sharply defined, resulting in a film of uniform strength.

Disease Sometimes Affects Position Assumed in Sleep, Doctor Declares

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

During his last illness the eminent English physician, Sir Astley Paston Cooper, expressed a wish that after his death his body would be examined at autopsy. He particularly alluded to four points for investigation: a cured oblique inguinal hernia, a cured umbilical hernia, some suspected indication of tuberculosis in his youth and his inability to sleep while lying on the left side.

Puzzling Points Settled

The great advances in the science of pathology since Sir Astley's day, with the accumulation of knowledge that has resulted from the enlightened attitude of the public about the desirability of autopsies, have settled all the points that may have puzzled Sir Astley about his hernias and his tuberculosis.

We know all about the pathology and nature of these diseases now, or at least we have a practically complete working knowledge. But the old controversy about sleeping on the side or the back or the abdomen still pops up. As a matter of fact, the autopsy was performed on Sir Astley's body after death and nothing was found which accounted for his inability to sleep on his left side; he had some adhesions around the gallbladder, but that should point to an inability to sleep on the right side if anything.

Studies of Sleeping Positions

The question pops up again and again and lately, in an issue of The Lancet. A physician in Birmingham states that he has for many years made notes of the positions which his patients took during sleep and has made inquiries from every available colleague or friend. "It soon became clear," he states, "that this was definitely characteristic for each individual. The individual seldom varied the position and when he did he was fully conscious that he had made a change."

Sleeping Habits

Sleeping habits change with age changes. Children like to sleep on their abdomen, face down, and many people retain this infantile habit until quite late in life. Most adults, if they take a nap in the day, do not sleep on the back. Most adults at night sleep on one side or the other, moving from side to side.

Disease sometimes makes some difference in sleeping habits. The Birmingham physician found that people with angina pectoris avoided sleeping on the left side. "This is partially understandable because angina pectoris means pain in the heart, the heart is on the left side and that side would naturally be avoided."

Subjects of Speculation

Do sleeping habits induce any diseases? The gentleman from Birmingham thinks that they do. He believes that sleeping on the abdomen for any long period in life is inclined to induce liver and gallbladder disease. He says: "I asked patients specifically if there was any period in their lives when they slept on their abdomen. Many people who did so for long periods were cases of either past or present liver or gallbladder disease."

While these observations are interesting for speculation, I would be very skeptical as to their real value.

Questions and Answers

J. Z.:—Is chronic mastitis dangerous, and in what way?

Answer: Chronic mastitis is a chronic inflammation of the female breast. It is sometimes mistaken for cancer. Sometimes it causes considerable discomfort, but otherwise is not dangerous.

V. Y.:—What is multiple neuritis? What causes it? What is the cure?

Answer: Multiple neuritis is an inflammation or degeneration of the nerves. It usually affects the nerves of the legs and causes clumsiness in muscular motion. A great many different things cause it: overuse of alcohol; lead is another; some infectious diseases such as diphtheria affect the nerves in this way; lack of vitamin B in the diet is the basis of most cases.

A. J.:—What would cause a boy, 17 years old, to have one side of the chest sunk in? Does this have any effect on the heart? Would it hinder him from passing an army physical test?

Answer: A deformity of this kind is probably due to rickets, which was acquired in childhood. It does not affect the heart. Whether or not he can pass an army examination would depend on how extensive it is.

R. M.:—Please advise in which foods I will find vitamins B1 and D.

Answer: Vitamin B1 is found in all cereals or wheat, yeast, milk, and eggs. Vitamin D is not found in many natural foods. However, the body itself is able to form it by the action of sunlight on the skin. Irradiated milk and other irradiated products contain vitamin D and so does cod-liver oil, as do other fish oils.

T. S.:—I was told that a duodenal ulcer never heals through, only heals over. Will this show on an x-ray if it is healed over? Do you advise operation? You should consult a physician about that.

A Day With a WAAC

PREPARING BREAKFAST at home spares Lieut. Fowler time she might have spent in a crowded Washington restaurant. She gets up at 7:15, is due at the War Department at 8:45.

WASHINGTON, D. C., with its increasing tempo of war-time hustle and bustle, provides a busy day for an officer of the Woman's Army Auxiliary Corps. Second Officer Ruth Fowler, pretty Californian stationed in a WAAC recruiting office, is a typical case. Lieutenant Fowler, who shares a room with an OWI girl at a private home, was on recruiting duty at Manchester, N. H., before coming to Washington. A graduate of the second officer's class, she was commissioned Sept. 12, 1942, as a third officer and was promoted to second officer Dec. 23. Here's a day with Lieut. Fowler.

SHE TAKES BUS from her home in Friendship Heights. Before becoming a WAAC she worked in travel office of a large oil firm in San Francisco.

ARRIVING AT OFFICE. Lieut. Fowler spent two years at University of California at Los Angeles, one year at U. of Chicago. She is 5 feet 3 inches, weighs 115.

ATTENDING CONFERENCE on recruiting with army officers is part of her routine. She also spends hours each day personally interviewing applicants for the WAAC. Sometimes there are so many she stays long after quitting time.

HER EVENINGS provide plenty of variety for Lieut. Fowler. Sometimes it's a few moments at church. Other times she stays in and presses uniforms and shines shoes. Occasionally she will go to market or do some personal shopping for uniform accessories. And then there are those nights when she goes out with a young army officer.

LUNCH usually is taken in the War Department cafeteria. Often, if she has time, Lieut. Fowler goes to market after work and prepares her own dinner. She likes to cook.

SIGNING OUT at the end of the day's work is required of all officers. Lieut. Fowler, who is an only child and unmarried, once ran information booth at Chicago Fair.

Fliers' Handholding
Upheld In Parliament

LONDON (AP)—The inalienable right of free Britons to hold hands or link arms with wives, sweethearts or female friends, while walking along the streets is not to be denied to RAF personnel, and Parliament is feeling better.

Recently the London press reported that RAF men had been ordered not to stroll in contact with members of the opposite sex. At the first sitting of Commons, Walter Edwards, a Laborite member from Whitechapel, arose promptly to demand if Sir Archibald Sinclair, the air secretary, knew about this invasion of privacy which "in no way assisted the war effort."

Sir Archibald provoked loud cheers when he said the order "has been withdrawn."

Gals Took the Horns
In Pittsburgh Symphony

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Seven years ago Lois Wann gave up playing the piano for the oboe because "obolists were more in demand."

Today she is the only girl oboe player occupying first chair in any major orchestra in the country, according to Dr. Fritz Reiner, conductor of the Pittsburgh Symphony orchestra.

Nine other girls play in the orchestra. Dr. Reiner says he believes it's the largest number of girls in any symphony in the United States.

Fliers Hail Town
As 'Second Home'

WHEATLAND, Wyo. (AP)—Flying cadets, leaving Wheatland after training here, wanted to express their gratitude to townspeople for their hospitality.

"Wheatland, we'll always remember you," said the advertisement. "In our three months here we have come to look upon your town as our home."

"You have given us that rare privilege of service men — eating a home cooked meal in your homes. We remember, too, that little gesture that always makes a stranger feel at home — you spoke to us on the street."

"We want to leave with you our thanks and a prayer that your boys, wherever they may be, will find another Wheatland."

Riding Too High

ENDERSON, N. C. (AP)—A man was fined in recorder's court on a charge of riding a horse while intoxicated.

Blood circulated through the entire body in about twenty-three seconds.

Not To Mention
Bad Blood

PORT RILEY, Kas. (AP)—At a quiz the other day Capt. Andrew G. Beck asked a man in the medical battalion to name the different types of blood.

"There is red blood and blue blood," he responded seriously.

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their false teeth dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little PASTETH, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Your false teeth will be firmly in place and more comfortable. Do not sour. Not call on Mother's day?

In past years one of the great joys for Mother on Her Day has been to hear the voices of absent sons and daughters calling her over the Long Distance telephone.

But now we are at war, and the war is on the wires. War calls are now crowding Long Distance lines in ever-mounting numbers, and to clear the way for them, only such calls should now be made as are absolutely necessary.

We know Mother will understand.

CONSTIPATED? EASY DOES IT!

If you're constipated, chances are it may be due simply to a lack of "bulk"-forming foods in the diet.

If that's your trouble, why resort to purges? They usually work by working on you—by jolting your intestines into action or drawing water into them from other parts of the body.

Give yourself gentle, yet effective relief—by eating KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN regularly. It's a delicious breakfast cereal that helps form a soft mass in the intestines, getting at the cause of constipation due to lack of "bulk" and correcting it. Eat ALL-BRAN regularly, drink plenty of water and "Join the Regulars!" Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek.

Frequent or easily passing water with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Companion Planting Makes for Greater Food Production

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., May 5. —(AP)—Companion planting such as interspersing the cabbage rows with radishes or onions, is one way to approach the problem of greater food production this season, J. D. Downs of West Virginia university suggests.

Where the land is fertile and plentifully supplied with moisture, companion cropping will bring the worthwhile results, Downs declared. Such crops should be similar enough to permit use of the same type of fertilizer and methods of cultivation. They also should have equal reaction to insecticides and fungicides, but sufficiently different so as not to leave the soil unbalanced.

Sweden Enlarges Stockholm Airport

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Bromma airport in Stockholm is to be considerably enlarged and improved. The blind landing line is to have its hard-surface section expanded to provide 1,825 meters of space at the end of this year. Another landing line will be extended to a length of 1,400 meters. The work is expected to cost about $161,250.

OPA Stretches Point For Fire Fighters

BUTTE, Mont. (AP)—Forest fires won't wait while fire fighters run home to get their ration books, the OPA agrees. So W. R. Rathke, Butte district ranger for the United States Forest service, is happy. OPA has notified him that in case of fire he may purchase the food needed for the fire fighters and the local ration boards will issue him the necessary points later.

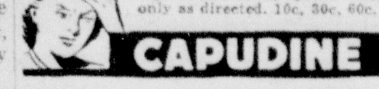

Rathke was worried because forest fire fighters, frequently in the field for several days at a time, decline to fight blazes on empty stomachs.

Desperadoes Is Technicolor Film

Columbia's Technicolor Western "The Desperadoes," yesterday opened at the Maryland theater. With Randolph Scott, Glenn Ford, Claire Trevor, Evelyn Keyes and Edgar Buchanan heading a cast, the new film is a splendor-splashed epic of the old West, an adventurous romance which thunders across the screen to the tune of cracking gunfire and roaring hoofs.

Pull-fashioned, robust adventure to be found in "The Desperadoes." Its principals are hunted men and painted women, killers and gamblers and heroes and cowards, desperate and reckless. The "bad" men include a wanted gunman who stops off in the pioneer town of Red Valley to do a little safe-breaking and slays to introduce law and order, and a dynamite-throwing killer, a good man to have around in a brawl. The "good" men include a sheriff who once was an outlaw himself, and remembers the fact; a banker who robs his safe once too often, a philosophic scalawag who also is a shootin' fool, when he can find his gun; and a judge who regards a rope as the highest form of justice!

The smaller the mammal, the higher is its pulse rate.

AN EDITORIAL

By the Liberty Theatre Staff.

The comments from hundreds of our patrons attending the opening of "NEXT OF KIN" yesterday at the Liberty convinced us that Cumberland will not let it happen here. We are proud to present this stirring drama.

For months the country has been exhorted by speech and by poster not to give away any vital information to the enemy. "NEXT OF KIN," a vividly dramatic picture starring Nova Pilbeam and English actors released from the army to make the film, goes further in its warnings by depicting the possible tragic consequences of apparently harmless information leaks. It shows how people innocently give away important military secrets which they do not themselves possess.

The devoted Mother or Father of some soldier silently and fervently prays for the security and safety of that boy every evening. Yet the very next morning this same solicitous parent, or possibly a sweetheart, wife, sister or brother may inadvertently drop a hint that unknowingly carries vital information to the enemy.

One slight slip of the tongue may jeopardize the safety of somebody's boy. One apparently innocuous remark injected in the course of a casual conversation may balance the difference between sweet victory and painful defeat, yes annihilation on the battlefield. Four or five innocent explanations of a soldier's whereabouts or his newest assignment or the last minute addition to his equipment may be pieced together in some Axis listening post in time to turn the tables on a carefully planned attack.

Count Fleet Is Heavy Favorite In Preakness

Vincentive or Blue Swords May Try Running from Start

By SID FEDER

BALTIMORE, May 6 (AP)—The horsemen's chapter of the "let's try anything once" society came up today with a "take off on the old you-hold-him-while-I-hit-him" technique as the one way left by which Count Fleet might possibly be beaten in the Preakness Saturday.

Now, this is not to imply that Maryland's pride, W. L. Brann's Vincentive, and Allen Simmons' Akro-owned Blue Swords are planning to gang up on the high-and-mighty Count when "Maryland, My Maryland" brings them out on old Pimlico's racing strip Saturday, because they're both nice young fellows and good to their folks.

And, certainly the latest possibility for Saturday's starting field—R. L. Hall's Partido—shouldn't be planning anything rash.

Has Won Seven Straight

But up to now, in seven straight starts last fall and this spring, the Count has had his own way about things, like a spoiled six-year-old crying for a lollipop, simply because no other gee-gee has tried to run with him whenever he made up his mind to step on the gas.

Now, say the wise-guys in this neighborhood, since nothing else has worked, why not have one of the other galleons in Saturday's scramble "hook" the Count and at least try to run with him, instead of letting him off by himself and laughing at the others to "come and get me?"

However, the same smarties give you the argument right back that if one of the Count's challengers should try that neat little trick come Saturday, he may be setting the pot up for the other fellow to take home. For, they argued, the Count isn't going to let another guy take the lead from him without a fight, and its possible he and, say, Vincentive might put up such a tough tussle in the early running that they'd kill each other off. In which case, Blue Swords might come bouncing home. This would be quite a bounce, because if four horses start the winning pot, he'd be $44,555 for him. For the Count, who paid $1,500 as a supplementary nominee, the pay-check will be $43,190.

Partido Will Start

Of course, no one in the race itself is talking about things like this, because horse-trainers never try their hands if they can help it. And the trainers of Vincentive and Blue Swords—Ed Christmas and Walter Kelley—have enough on their hands just thinking about running against the Kentucky Derby dandy without making public threats against him. The Count can't understand them anyway.

But you hear talk that some rabble like this is about ready to pop out of the hat, and it could very well be Vincentive, because he's a big, strong hay-stoker and trainer Christmas tells you "he can run all day." It is not likely to be Blue Swords, because he's mostly a "come from behind" stopper. And it is practically impossible for it to be Partido, because he'll be in just to pick up that $2,000 fourth money.

Partido became a starting possibility today when his new owner, Hall, said he would try to get permission from the colts' previous owner, R. J. Kleberg's King ranch of Texas, to start him. Hall claimed Partido from Kleberg for $3,500 a few days ago, and under the conditions of the Preakness needs permission from the nominator—Kleberg—before he can send him to the post.

Jockeys Announced

BALTIMORE, May 6 (AP)—The jockey lineup for Saturday's Preakness stakes was set today, as far as the three definite starters are concerned, when Trainer Walter Kelley announced that Johnny Adams, the pudgy little Kansan, would have the mount on Blue Swords.

As usual, Johnny Longden will handle Count Fleet and George (The Iceman) Wolf, the contract rider for the W. L. Brann stable, will pilot Brann's Vincentive.

Adams rode Blue Swords to second place in the Derby behind Count Fleet a week ago, but it wasn't known until today whether Kelley would bring him up from Kentucky for Saturday's scuffle.

Star Copy Wins Pimlico Feature

BALTIMORE, May 6 (AP)—Pulling away handily in the stretch, H. P. Metcalf's Star Copy won the featured $2,000 Annapolis Purse before a crowd estimated at 12,000 persons at Pimlico race course today.

Ridden by Jockey Danny Socca, the Trace Call filly covered the six furlongs in 1:11 2-5 over a fast track.

At the wire she had a three length margin over G. T. Strother's Shrimple, while that one led Howe Stable's Port Harmony by half a length. Mrs. R. H. Heighes' Pony Ballet was fourth in the field of six.

Star Copy was the favorite at the mutuels, and returned $4.20, $2.90 and $2.20 for a $2 ticket.

Star Copy broke fast in first place, but was allowed to settle off the pace set by Pony Ballet. She made her move on the stretch turn, but was still trailing by half a length as they headed into the stretch. Pony Ballet then faded badly as Star Copy pulled away to win handily and Shrimple came up from third position to be runner-up.

The sixth race provided something of a surprise as Lieut. Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt's Tedious, a nine year old which had spent five seasons in stud, romped off with first place and returned $13.50, $6.50 and $3.40.

Tedious, which has half a dozen colts and fillies ready to go to the races this year, had not started since May 10, 1938, when he won at Bowie.

The big chestnut son of Teddy covered the mile and one sixteenth in 1:45 2-5 under Jockey Wayne Wright and finished a length and a half in front of J. Y. Christmas' Rough Pass. Tedious took the lead from the gate and was never headed.

The SPORT TRAIL

By DAVE HOFF
(Pinch-Hitting for Whitney Martin)

CHICAGO, May 6 (AP)—Ted Lyons' old No. 16 shirt has been framed on the wall of the Chicago White Sox clubhouse, a ceremony sometimes denoting a former wearer is dead. However, Theodore Amar Lyons is very much alive and kicking, as a marine corps lieutenant, and his favorite post-war dream is to "get that shirt in action again."

And the guy is forty-two years old! Lyons' current place of business is navy pier, a low, narrow building extending nearly a mile into Lake Michigan off downtown Chicago. It's a far cry from green-sodded Comiskey park where Teddy was the pitching darling of three generations of White Sox fans, beginning in 1922.

Says He's a Busher
Ere thousands of young sailors and marines are learning wheat makes naval and aviation engines tick. And here Ted Lyons, by his own words, is "a busher, just like I was when I started out with the White Sox."

"I suppose if the war lasts three or four more years I'll have to give up the idea of pitching again," Ted says. "But if I can get back before then, I may have a few years of active play in me unless I'd get knocked out right away by a line drive from one of these new rabble balls they're bringing in."

For the duration, however, the possibility of playing professional baseball is closed for this Louisiana bayou boy who doesn't look much different from the kid who came up from the Baylor campus at Waco, Tex., twenty-one years ago.

"Sundays now I usually go out to that baseball orchard but it's just to sit around and join the grandstand second-guessers. That must be the biggest occupation in the world, judging from all the people I've seen engaged at it."

"But I haven't even considered working out, because I don't feel it would do me any particular good."

White Sox fans like to dwell on Ted Lyons' 259 pitching victories against 226 defeats with a club that was rarely a pennant contender and never a campaign; his no-hit, 6 to 0 win over Boston August 21, 1926; his 14 triumphs against six losses during the 1942 campaign, which was his two-hundredth in the majors.

Is Streamlined Now
Lyons likes to talk about his streamlined figure, reduced during marine indoctrination training at Quantico, Va. from 208 to 195 pounds, and his excellent physical condition. But it's still a baseball man and threatens on Sundays to go into the Sox clubhouse and playfully wrestle into condition any player who isn't in shape.

"But what a change from baseball this is," he cries. "I get up at 6 a. m. instead of nine, the way I used to. Why, do you know, that's twenty-one hours of sleep a week I'll never catch up on."

Ted dressed in a floppy sports jacket and slacks when he was with the Sox. Now he's in the trim, natty green uniform of the marine corps. He resides at a near North Side hotel where the desk clerk and coffee shop waitresses, all good Lyons fans, delight in calling him "lieutenant" instead of "Ted."

Sometimes he wonders how things are getting along down at his home in Vinton, La. A bachelor, Ted has his sister in to mind the house. "But there are no dogs for her to look after," he said wistfully. "First time in my life I haven't had a

A pair of Tri-State interscholastic conference battles and two other contests will find seven district baseball teams, including all three local nines, in action this afternoon. All of the games will get under way at 4 o'clock.

The Fort Hill High Sentinels and the Beall high nine, of Frostburg, sharing the conference lead with three straight victories, will figure in loop battles with the Sentinels meeting Hyndman (Pa.) high in a return clash on the Fort Hill diamond. It's a far cry from green-sodded Comiskey park where Teddy was the pitching darling of three generations of White Sox fans, beginning in 1922.

Allegany Plays Romney
In the other tussles, Allegany's Campers and the LaSalle Explorers will step outside of the conference with Allegany opposing the Romney (W. Va.) High Pioneers in a return scrap at Campobello and the Explorers playing the LaSalle Seniors at Community Park.

Fort Hill, 5-3 winner over Hyndman earlier in the season, will be favored to trim the Pennsylvanians again, while Beall should take the measure of Paw Paw in the first meeting of these teams this season.

The Sentinels, in three games, have been charged with only two errors and have collected a score of hits. Hyndman has twenty-seven hits for four contests but is weak afield, having committed twenty-four miscues. Hyndman and Paw Paw share last place in the conference with four setbacks each.

LaSalle Lineup Shifted
Allegany, with three victories in four loop tussles, handed Romney a 12-8 defeat in the previous meeting in the West Virginia town, while LaSalle will be favored over the Seniors despite a lineup shift apparently for the purpose of making the teams more evenly matched.

Ray Schmutz, regular LaSalle catcher, is scheduled to start on the mound with infielder Bobby Stakem doing the receiving. Clay Ingram will be at first, Joe Carter at second, Jim Laffey at third, George Geatz at short and Robert Daugherty, Jack Steiner and Norman Geatz in the outfield.

The Seniors' lineup will probably be Bill Hunt, pitcher; Ronald Palmer, catcher; Tommy Ford, first base; Eugene Turano, second base; Ray Shaffer, third base; Jack Carney, shortstop, and George Carney, Joe Arnone and George Hughes, outfielders.

bird dog to go hunting with me or tramping through the woods."

After the war, after his pitching days are over, what then? "I want to stay in baseball," he says. "The White Sox are probably in his mind when he says this. 'I couldn't have picked a better town or a better team to play on,' he declares."

Harvard Quits Football for The Duration

Yale and Princeton Will Go Ahead; Will Schedule Other Teams

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 6—Harvard announced tonight its withdrawal from formal intercollegiate football for the duration, and the question was raised immediately whether the scrapping of this eight game "big-time" schedule might precipitate a blackout on college football as it has been known in the Northeast.

The other two members of the one-time "Big Three"—Yale and Princeton—promptly said nay.

"Sorry over the action," commented Howard Odell, Eli football coach. "But it won't affect us at all. We don't expect any trouble filling the date."

At Princeton, Acting Director of Athletics Asa Bushnell, said:

"Plans for continuing football at Princeton have not been abandoned and no abandonment is contemplated at this time. We will proceed slowly in adjusting our '43 schedule, which listed eight games until the Harvard cancellation."

The possibility of crumbling schedules seemed apparent.

W. H. McCarter, director of athletics at Dartmouth, said he regretted that Harvard found it necessary to cancel its football schedule, adding:

"At Dartmouth there is not sufficient detailed information upon which to base a final decision but we are hopeful of maintaining modified schedules in all sports, especially with the other institutions having v-12 (naval college training program) units."

In announcing the discontinuance, C. F. Getchell, acting manager of the Harvard Athletic Association, said its policy was determined by four factors:

Reduction in undergraduates available to participate in sports; Heavy demands for use of the university's facilities for war training programs by the army and navy (nearly 4,000 are already in training at Harvard under such programs);

The accelerated academic schedule and the increased burden of laboratory work on many students taking sciences for training in the war effort; and
Repeated requests of the office of defense transportation to curtail all travel not necessary for the promotion of the war effort.

Childs Cup Races Set for Saturday

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 6 (AP)—The Childs Cup races—blue ribbon crew regatta of the East—will be held on the Severn river here Saturday with the Varsity, Junior Varsity and Freshmen crews of Navy, Princeton, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Pennsylvania and Columbia participating.

This year, because of transportation difficulties, the crews are not bringing their shells with them, but they have drawn for boats belonging to the host—Navy. The visiting crews will bring only their own oars and outriggers, and they will rig their boats between races.

Rodgers, named by the late Walter Camp as fullback on the 1919 All America team, is the only member of a West Virginia university eleven ever so honored.

He has been identified with Mountaineer athletics almost since his graduation. He took over as head coach in 1925 from Dr. Clarence W. Spears, who went from here to Minnesota and is now the new coach at University of Maryland. Rodgers was succeeded after the season of 1930 by Earle (Greasy) Neale, now coach of the Philadelphia Eagles in the National Professional Football League.

Phillies Defeat Dodgers 3 to 2 In Ten Innings

BROOKLYN, May 6 (AP)—The Philadelphia Phillies bumped off Brooklyn National League leaders today for the second time in their four game series, winning 3 to 2 in ten innings.

Unlike yesterday's wild 18-6 affair, today's tussle was a pitching duel between bespectacled John Podgajny, who held the Dodgers to five hits, and Buck Newsom, who allowed six.

The Phillies twice came from behind to tie the score and won in the tenth when Glen Stewart opened with a triple and came home on Ron Northey's tremendous fly.

Newsom, winner of two games without a defeat previously, struck out nine and issued only three walks, but two of them came in succession in the fifth to force in a run. Brooklyn scored a run without a hit in the same inning.

Yanks Take Two More Contests From Red Sox

Win First Game 2 to 1 and Eke Out Second by 5-4 Score

NEW YORK, May 6 (AP)—The New York Yankees put the Boston Red Sox through a wringer twice today, squeezing out victories in both ends of a double header 2 to 1 and 5 to 4 to complete a sweep of their four game series.

The first fray was a pitching battle between big Ernie Bonham of the Yankees and Lefty Oscar Judd of the Sox. Each gave nine hits but Charley Keller, who hit an inside-the-park homer yesterday, exploded a 400-foot triple in the seventh inning and scored on a fly by Joe Gordon to decide the duel in Bonham's favor. It was the third victory without a defeat for the husky righthander.

The second session was an old story that resulted in Johnny (Grandma) Murphy, New York's star relief pitcher, obtaining his fourth triumph and Mace Brown, Boston's relief specialist, absorbing his fourth defeat.

Although the Red Sox made just four hits, Manager Joe McCarthy had to call on four pitchers. He started Tommy Byrne, rookie southpaw, who faced only five batters, walked four of them and didn't get the other one out. He forced two runs home and Tony Lupien singled for two more in the first inning after Bill Zuber took charge.

The game then was scoreless for five innings till the Yanks nicked Dick Newsome for their first tally in the seventh. Newsome loaded the bases with two walks and a single in the eighth and was relieved by Brown, who let all three runners reach home—the tying counter being forced across on another walk.

George Stinewiss opened the ninth with a single. Roy Weatherly bunted and Stinewiss beat Brown's throw to second. Keller followed with another bunt and this time Brown threw wide over third for an error to let in the winning run.

It was Boston's tenth defeat in fourteen games and fifth straight.

Athletics Blank Senators 7 to 0

PHILADELPHIA, May 6 (AP)—The Philadelphia Athletics mauled two Washington pitchers for 11 well-placed hits today and walloped the Senators, 7 to 0.

Roger Wolff, who a few weeks ago was complaining that his knuckleball wasn't up to par, became the first A's pitcher of the season to hurl a shutout. He allowed ten hits. It was his third victory this year.

An error, two walks and an infield single gave the Athletics two runs off Ewald Pyle in the first inning, and Bob Swift's long double opened another two-run attack in the second.

Pete Suder tripped with three aboard in the fourth, when Philadelphia scored three times against Owen Schetz.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 6 (AP)—The Maryland Racing Commission was authorized today to designate tracks at which racing may be conducted, following the signing of a measure by Governor O'Connor.

This was one of many legislative acts, several of which were local measures, to receive gubernatorial approval today.

Browns Defeat Tigers 1 to 0

ST. LOUIS, May 6 (AP)—The St. Louis Browns broke the Detroit jinx today, pushing over a run in the ninth to beat the Tigers 1 to 0 for the first time in five games this season.

Another first was Vernon Stephens' failure to hit. The Browns' shortstop, league leading batter, connected safely in each of the previous ten games starting with the opener.

Left handed Hal Newhouse and Denny Galehouse matched each other in effectiveness throughout the game and not a man reached third until the ninth when the Tigers had a chance to win.

Rudy York doubled to left and Pinky Higgins sacrificed him to third. Don Gutteridge tossed out, Rip Radcliff while York held the base. Jim Bloodworth then filed to Mike Kreevich.

George McQuinn tripled to left center after Stephens filed out to open the Browns' ninth. Manager Luke Sewell sent in light hitting Don Heffner to bat for Mike Chartak. Heffner bunted to Newhouse and McQuinn streaked home ahead of the pitcher's throw for the winning run. Heffner was credited with a sacrifice.

Cleveland Licks White Sox 6-3

CLEVELAND, May 6 (AP)—Five Chicago White Sox hurlers paraded before the Cleveland Indians today and were hammered for 11 hits as the Tribe took a 6 to 3 victory to end the series.

Southpaw Al Smith, 34-year-old Indian veteran, yielded 11 hits to the Sox, but kept them scattered and ineffective.

Cleveland's triumph was built on two big innings, the third and seventh, with three runs collected in each.

Jack Wade was removed from the White Sox slab in the third in favor of Bill Swift, who was removed for a pinch hitter and replaced by Orval Grove. Grove was relieved in the sixth by Joe Haynes. Don Hanaki, White Sox newcomer, pitched the last inning.

Cubs Defeat Cards 5 to 1 as Bithorn Wins Third Game

St. Louis Held Scoreless
for Eight Innings by Big Righthander

CHICAGO, May 6 (P)—Hi Bithorn, the Chicago Cubs' Puerto Rican right hander, smothered the St. Louis Cardinals for the second time in eight days today as the Cubs won the series two games to one. It was the season's third victory for the big right-hander.

Bithorn, who pitched a seven hit shutout at St. Louis last Thursday, held the Cards scoreless again until the ninth inning while his mates worked up a run off Harry Gumbert on a pass and singles by Bill Nicholson and Heinz Becker in the fourth inning. The Cubs then blasted their 1942 nemesis from the scene in the midst of a four run seventh inning.

A double by Stan Hack exited Gumbert with two runs and two more on in the seventh after singles by Harry Lowery, Chico Hernandez and Bithorn opened the inning. Eddie Stanky, rookie second baseman, then singled home the other two runs off reliever Harry Brecheen.

Bithorn preserved his shutout in the eighth after shortstop Lenny Merullo made a two base wild throw against the dugout on Lou Klein's grounder. After pinch hitter Coaker Triplett grounded out, Bithorn anchored Klein to third while tossing out Jimmy Brown and then got Dots Garmes on an outfield fly.

Singles by Stan Musial and Ray Sanders, followed by Harry Walker's outfield fly scored the Cardinal run in the ninth.

FOR THE GAME'S SAKE

NEW YORK, May 5—Does anyone want to bet that the projected visit of three great Swedish track athletes—Gunder Hagg, Arne Anderson and Haakon Lidman—to these shores competition against our leading specialists, is not kaput? Prediction herewith is ventured that no Swedes will be running here this summer, nor for the duration.

By way of the grapevine route of information this writer is in a position to say that negotiations leading to the presence in this country within a comparatively short time of Sweden's trio of famous track athletes had advanced far. Arrangements for competition of Hagg and company were going forward with the assurance the trio would be on hand when the pistol cracked. All this implies—and it seems to have been a fact—that the government authorities concerned were giving sympathetic attention to appeals from high sources—supplying the A. A. U.—for the allotment of airplane space to the three Swedes.

In other words, everything seemed to be to the good; so much so that the statement of Daniel J. Ferris, secretary of the A. A. U., intimating that Hagg would be in this country before the public knew he had left his native land, had all the sound of a definite promise.

Not Likely
But now with swiftness characteristic of these tumultuous times the situation has probably changed. This is not because of anything year your correspondent is the worst guesser in the United States. Can you imagine any government authority or authorities, granting permission to a foreigner to come to these shores and accepting his stipulation that he remain aloof from events held to raise money for our war effort? For that matter, can you imagine those who have been trying to bring him here continuing their efforts to this end?

Games, all sorts of competition by every amateur and professional sports body in the United States have been integrated in a general scheme of money-raising for patriotic purposes. Activities in this respect have been cited as one of the main reasons for the continuance of sports in wartime. For Hagg and his fellow athletes to come here on the basis of athletic competition pure and simple with no patriotic connotation whatever, is simply inconceivable. Therefore, track enthusiasts who have been looking forward to some great contests on the under paths this summer would do well to readjust their expectatations—unless, of course, Hagg changes his mind.

Neutrality
It is hardly likely he will do this. In fact, there seems to be no likelihood whatever. Sweden, after all, is a neutral country and the outcry raised in the German press when the visit of the Swedish athletes to the United States was first broached seems to be the tip-off as to underlying reasons for Hagg's negative attitude about war fund meetings here. Incidentally, it is entirely reasonable to assume that Hagg did not speak of his own initiative. The lines were written for him and merely read by the great runner.

Today's VICTORY GARDEN-GRAPH

Speed-Up System for Victory Garden Potatoes

By DEAN HALLIDAY

Early potatoes for the Victory garden should be planted as soon as the soil can be properly worked. In some regions early planted potatoes run the risk of having their tops nipped by a late frost, but this usually is not serious, for the plants will grow again.

By the use of a "speed up" system, however, the outdoor planting of potatoes can be delayed several weeks until all danger of frost is past, without loss of time in potato growth. The "speed up" system involves cutting the potatoes into planting pieces, each piece with one or two "eyes." Next place the pieces of seed potatoes in flats, as shown in the accompanying Garden-Graph. Cover the potato pieces with sand and place the flat in a warm room, in sunlight if possible. The potato pieces will then form roots. In 10 days or two weeks they can be planted out of doors with safety and without loss of growing time. Do not water the potatoes in the flats, for this will promote soft, slender sprouts instead of the short, dark colored ones desired.

One of the several methods of planting potatoes is to make a furrow seven inches deep, as illustrated. Then spread a fertilizer in the bottom of the trench and mix it well with the soil. Next, spread a layer of top soil, two or three inches thick, in the trench. Now plant the potatoes, setting each piece 10 or 12 inches apart, after which fill up the trench with top soil. As the roots grow downward they will be fed by the fertilizer.

BE A FINESSE HATER

IF YOU ARE going to have idiosyncrasies regarding bridge, certain things you specially like to do and others which you try to avoid, one of the best is to be a hater of finesses. By that is not meant your unwillingness to take a finesse when it is the sound thing to do, but to make a thorough examination of your situation first to decide whether there is or is not some better way to play the hand.

May brings sad memories of a loved one who is no more. And he will always be remembered by the ones who loved him best. Peaceful be thy rest dear dad and husband. It is sweet to breathe thy name. In life we loved you dearly. In death we do the same. LOVING WIFE AND CHILDREN. 5-7-11-NT

In memory of our dear daughter Mary Louise Schanning, who passed away 7 years ago, May 7th, 1936.

Why should our tears in sorrow flow, When God recalls his own? And bids them leave a world of woe. It not even death a gain to those whose life to God was given? Gladly to earth their eyes they close, To open them in heaven. MOTHER AND DADDY. 5-7-11-NT

150 High School Girls Are Sought As Bean Pickers

B. O. Aiken Appeals in Behalf of Garrett Farmers to Principals Here

An appeal for approximately 150 high school girls over fourteen years old to pick beans in Garrett county for a period of about three weeks, starting August 1, was made yesterday by B. O. Aiken, principal of Accident high school, to principals of Allegheny county high schools at the board of education office, Washington street.

Aiken, who was accompanied here by John Carter, farm agent for Garrett county, stated that farmers of Garrett county are being asked to grow 100 acres of stringless beans for a Garrett county canning company and the farmers are eager to grow the beans, but they do not have sufficient laborers to get the beans picked.

Must Plant 100 Acres

The canning company is unwilling to initiate the project unless at least 100 acres are contracted to be planted. So far about fifty acres have been contracted. The remaining fifty acres which will be needed for the project can easily be obtained if sufficient bean pickers can be found to supplement the local workers, particularly in the Accident area.

Aiken pointed out that picking beans is not a dangerous job, as it does not entail climbing or using farm machinery. The work can be done by inexperienced juveniles and the bean-picking season will come at a time when pupils will not be in school.

Will Use 4-H Camp

If sufficient volunteers can be obtained in Allegheny county, Aiken said that the workers will be quartered at the 4-H camp near Blittinger, which will be leased through the University of Maryland Extension Service. This camp is well equipped from every standpoint and it can accommodate between 120 and 150 girls.

Personnel needed to look after the students will be a camp superintendent, a supervisor for each twenty girls and two cooks to prepare the meals. School buses will be obtained to transport the students from their homes to the camp. Buses also will be used to transport the students from the camp to the farms where the beans are to be picked.

Pupils will pay for their meals, laundry and general expenses of camp maintenance out of their earnings. Every effort will be made to keep these costs as low as possible.

Pick Beans from 10 to 5

Volunteers will work about six hours a day picking beans. They will begin working about 10 a. m. and quit about 5 p. m. They should take about an hour for lunch and relaxation. Pupils will furnish their own bed clothes, sheets and pillow cases.

Pupils will be paid forty cents a bushel for picking beans. The average inexperienced juvenile worker should be able to pick four or five bushels in a day. An additional twenty cents a bushel will be paid to take care of bus transportation and supervision. Attractive team and individual prizes will be offered.

Parents Held Responsible

Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of Allegheny schools, last evening stressed that the bean-picking project is not sponsored by the board of education and all responsibility will rest on the parents of pupils volunteering to do the work.

Cards will be printed and mailed to the parents of pupils volunteering for the work. Each volunteer must receive parental consent which relieves the school or board from any responsibility in the matter.

Mrs. Stitche Will Unveil Honor Roll

300 Holy Name Members Will Attend 7 a. m. Mass at SS. Peter and Paul

Mrs. William A. Stitche, mother of Pvt. Carl Stitche, who was killed in action in North Africa, November 27, 1942, will unveil a service honor roll containing the names of approximately 250 members of the parish serving in the armed forces, Sunday, May 9, before the 7 a. m. Mass in SS. Peter and Paul Catholic church, Fayette street.

Pvt. Stitche was the first member of the parish reported killed in action in the present war.

The program will be held under the auspices of the Holy Name Society of SS. Peter and Paul church and 300 members of the society will march in a body to the church to attend mass.

Three hundred members of the parish are serving in various branches of the services and additional names will be placed on the honor roll later.

The Rev. Father Edward will say mass and will deliver a sermon on "Mothers and War."

The commanding officer of a troop train wired Griffin McGinn of the B. and O. at 3 o'clock Easter Sunday afternoon and asked him if he would arrange an Easter for the boys, aboard the train, saying the train would arrive at the Queen City station at 4 o'clock.

The Rev. William von Spreckelsen of Trinity Lutheran church conducted the Protestant service, his subject being "Easter Joy in a Troubled World."

The Rev. Ireneus Rein, pastor of SS. Peter and Paul church, conducted the Catholic service. He urged the boys to fight for God and their country, reminding them that if they live with a clear conscience they are willing to risk their lives. He also admonished them to enjoy themselves with wholesome pleasures.

The Easter celebration was held in the park adjoining the Queen City station for 500 soldiers.

Is it worth taking a chance trying to get vegetables to grow in heavy clay soil?

This question often asked by local persons unfamiliar with soil desiring to plant victory gardens this year.

Those who have had experience with planting in heavy clay soil admit that it is not the most satisfactory for growing vegetables, particularly such crops as carrots, turnips and beets, but certain other plants will grow in clay soil provided coarser materials are mixed with the clay to cause it to disintegrate.

The trouble with clay soils is their fine texture. They cake solid and do not crumble as does a good sandy loam soil.

Old ashes, fine gravel, cinders, garden refuse and any decayed matter that may be available from the compost heap, or the manure pile are the best materials for clay soil.

Lime is good for such soils, seeming to make the fine grains collect into coarser particles. It thus makes heavier soils easier to work. An application of ten pounds to every 100 square feet of ground is said to be beneficial.

Crops which make their important growth above ground are more likely to produce satisfactory crops than are root-producing vegetables when one is compelled to do the gardening on a heavy clay.

Crops recommended include endive, late cabbage, broccoli, string beans, lima beans, peas, tomatoes, cucumbers, Swiss chard, peppers and sweet corn.

One must bear in mind that heavy soils warm up slowly in the spring. Therefore such seeds as not easily, namely, corn and beans, should not be sown too early.

Tricked by the process of thinning out plants, a Philadelphian has invented a way out. He has always sown the seeds by hand, letting them trickle slowly into the furrows. But occasionally they fell too fast and as a result too many sprouted in the same place.

His scheme is to cut a length of string, exactly the number of feet in each row. This he dipped into a light glue composition. Then he spaced each seed the requisite number of inches apart along the string. When the glue dried, the seeds held fast.

When planting time came around all he had to do was lay the string in the ground, cover it with dirt and watch the seeds sprout precisely as planned.

The glue did no damage because every seed came up and developed into a good-sized vegetable. However, he cautioned against experimenting with the method if you are short of spare time. He claims he borrowed the time from the tedious hours he would have spent thinning out the plants later on.

Baltimore Girl Wins Annual CSMC Oratory Contest at Capital

WASHINGTON, May 6. (AP)—Nancy Lee Murray, pretty, red-haired youngster representing the Institute of Notre Dame in the Baltimore conference, Catholic Mission Students Crusade, tonight won the annual oratorical contest of the crusade sponsored by the Catholic University Conference of Clerics and Religious.

The judges did not announce the order in which they had rated the other contestants. All five had the same topic: "The Part of a Catholic Youth of the United States in the Post-War Catholic reconstruction."

The judges were Rep. Mary Norton of New Jersey, Attorney Edward Curran, and the Rev. Paul Tanner, all of Washington.

Some of the contestants, among them Phyllis Brown, of Cumberland, Md., said in their orations that prayer and sacrifice were necessary to a true and lasting peace, and also stressed the need of post-war missions.

The prize consisted of $50 in cash and the "Archbishop Curley trophy."

Also provides for the levying of taxes to pay interest on and redeem said bonds and calls for a referendum on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in February, 1944.

HB 702—An act to repeal and re-enact with amendments section of the law relating to tax sales in Garrett county. ## Road and Bridge Work Discussed With Commission

Commissioners Want State To Take Over Green Ridge Road

Also Want Luke Bridge Taken Over and Route 40 Repaired

Possibilities of having Green Ridge road and the Luke bridge taken over by the Maryland State Roads Commission and having improvements made on the National highway between Frostburg and Cumberland were discussed by the county commissioners in a conference with the state roads commission in Baltimore Wednesday.

Green Ridge road, which extends from Shipway's Inn to the state line on Route 40 was built in 1940 and resurfaced in 1941. After the first resurfacing it was supposed to have been taken over by the state roads commission, but the final move was never made. In the conference Wednesday, the state roads commission promised to authorize an investigation, to be conducted by a local engineer, and action will be taken upon receipt of a report on the condition of the road.

In answer to the county commissioners' request that the state commission take over the Luke bridge and maintain repairs on it, Chairman Ezra B. Whitman pointed out that the approach to the bridge was on a private street in Luke instead of on a part of a state highway. The state would, therefore, be unable to take over the bridge unless the town of Luke would transfer the deed to the street to the state roads commission, making it state property also.

Regarding improvements on the National highway between Frostburg and Cumberland, Chairman Whitman stated that the commission is anxious to repair the road if it can just get priorities for the required materials. Until such priorities can be obtained there is nothing the commission can do, he pointed out.

Those attending the conference were Commissioners James Holmes and Simeon A. Green, County Engineer John R. Carscaden and R. Mason Hill, supervisor of assessments.

Marine Corps General Commends Naval Construction Corps

Chief Petty Officer George J. Carroll, local navy recruit, said yesterday that the record established by the Seabees, naval construction corps, during the past year has won high praise from naval officials. With more than seventy-five local men serving in the Seabees, Carroll pointed out some of these accomplishments.

Aided in the development of port and other facilities in Africa.

Took over the public works maintenance and operation of the navy's bases in the United Kingdom.

Assisted in the North African invasion last November.

Augmented civilian forces in Iceland to insure more rapid completion of the navy's facilities in that country, and afforded a public works maintenance and operating force for all completed works. Did the same work in outposts in Argentina.

They took over practically all of the advance base construction work throughout the territory of Alaska, including Dutch Harbor, Kodiak, Sitka and other points.

At present the Seabees are constructing advance base facilities for the United States fleet throughout the world.

Victory Garden Group Proposes Exhibit at Fair

Special Display of Products from City Gardens Is Recommended

Efforts will be made by the Cumberland Victory Garden Committee to have the Cumberland Fair Association reserve a special section at its annual agricultural exhibit in August to display products of Cumberland Victory Gardens, Ralph L. Rizer, chairman, announced yesterday following a meeting of the group at city hall.

The committee agreed that such a proposal was a sound one and Rizer will discuss the proposition with Clifton W. White, president and general manager of the fair association and Ralph F. McHenry, county farm agent.

Few exhibits of products from city gardens have been displayed at the fair in the past and the committee feels that more interest would be created in the agricultural show if Cumberland gardeners are accorded special recognition and premiums are offered for the outstanding crops.

The Victory Garden committee will be willing to stand part of the expense of premiums through funds obtained in leasing lots within the city limits to victory gardeners.

The plan as proposed by the committee would separate city garden products from the open exhibits usually featured at the fair.

If such an arrangement is acceptable to fair officials it would eliminate any judging of local gardens under the supervision of the committee. Under such a plan the products and not the gardens would be judged by competent officials of the University of Maryland.

"Judging gardens has too many angles to consider," Rizer said, "and the fair exhibit plan would certainly solve a big problem."

Forty-two lots have been leased through the city engineer's office to date and 119 no-trespassing signs have been purchased from Webster K. Edwards and the city engineer's office.

Food Shortage Is Just Beginning, Specialist Says

Dr. H. F. Kilander Speaks at B. and O. Health for Victory Dinner

Asserting that "we are just beginning to have food shortages," Dr. H. F. Kilander, of the Nutrition and Food Conservation division of the Food Distribution Administration, spoke at the Health for Victory dinner sponsored by the Women's Division of the Co-operative Traffic Program of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, held last night in Queen City hotel.

Approximately 150 persons heard Kilander say that as the war progresses and America takes over more conquered countries, there will be more people to feed. "We are doing it now in North Africa," he declared, and are offering food as "bait" to urge the people of Italy to revolt.

Narrows Food Choice
When the submarine menace is "licked," the speaker said, more and more food will be shipped overseas. "We won't starve. We just won't have as much choice," he explained.

Farmers, Kilander said, are being urged to raise foods of high nutritive value, such as carrots and cabbage, in place of foods
